One way signs, recently installed in Somerset, bring different reactions from drivers as they travel through town.

The band performs during the halftime of the Somerset-Bedford football game.

ONE WAY . . .

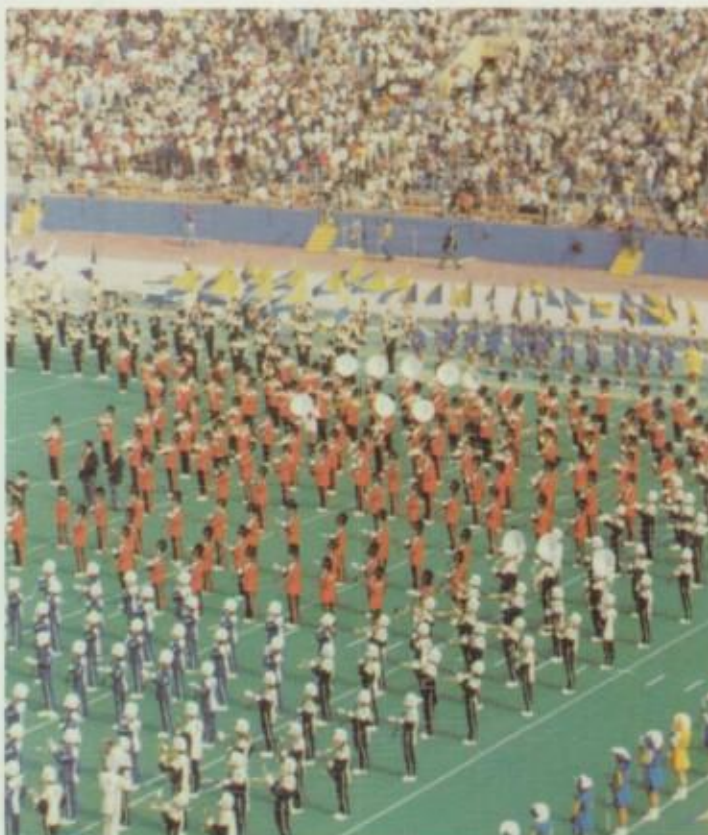

*Separate lives merge to travel as one;
together we make our journey along the path of life.*

*The way is not easy,
for we stumble over rocks of indecision,
climb steep hills of trial,
encounter obstacles of failure and defeat.*

*Yet we continue,
struggling to overcome.*

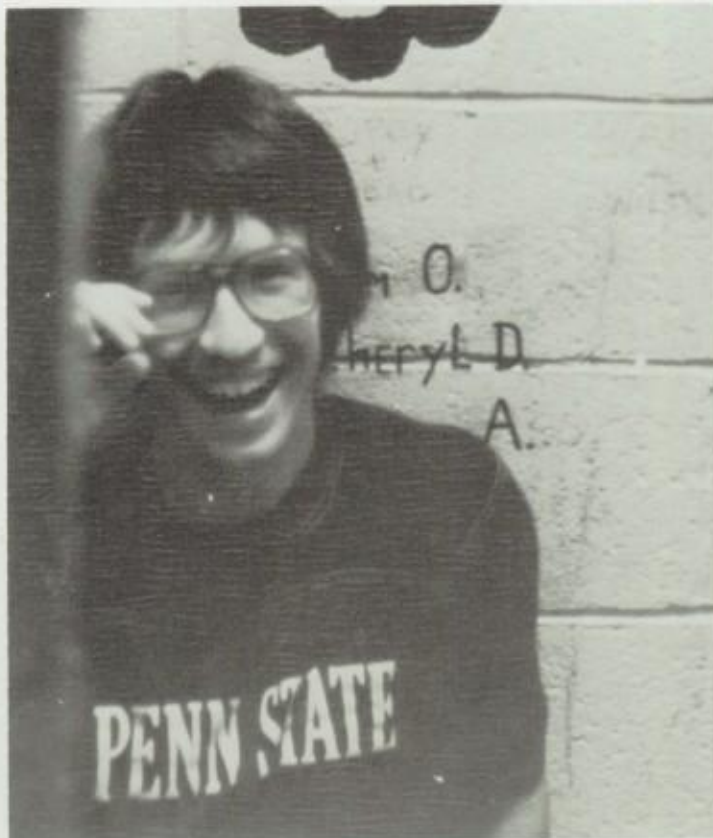

This familiar orange and black tassel is a mark of pride for Somerset high school graduates.

The Golden Eagle marching band participates in the half-time show at the Pitt-North Carolina football game.

Seniors burn their mortgage after a record-breaking magazine campaign.

"I can finally breathe again," sighs Steve Stoltz after being the bottom of a pile of twenty-two seniors stuffed into the phone booth.

A basketball ends in a perfect shot in the gym.

Seniors uphold annual tradition by painting the school barn.

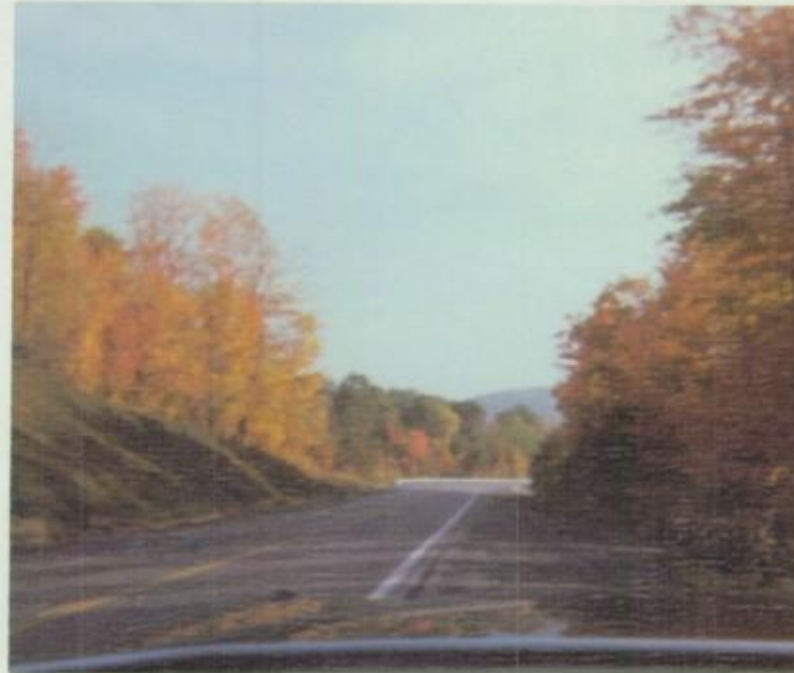

*We blaze the trail with our achievements.
Our tears and laughter become landmarks for those to come.
Unified by a common goal, secure in our number, we reach for our destiny.
Still we realize that soon we must break away, create our own paths to the future.*

*We become independent,
yet we do not travel alone.
For the experience and knowledge we have gained are always with us.
We look to the horizon with hope,
realizing as we do that this is*

Bright autumn leaves, a trademark of Western Pennsylvania, add color to a Somerset County highway.

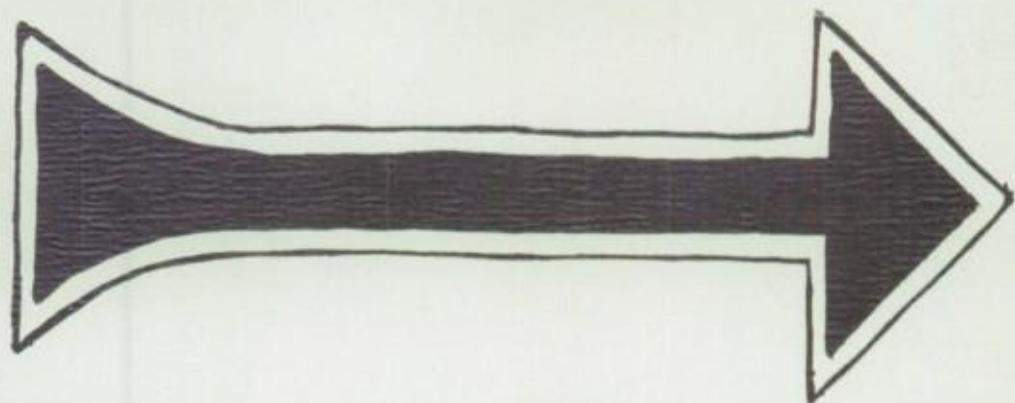

Proud seniors outline their class number, realizing that graduation is finally just around the corner.

• • • OUR WAY

Seniors

*Standing on the threshold of life, seniors look beyond.
Graduation nears, and our journey through school is almost complete.*

*Preparing for the future, we look to the past.
Our memories and experiences will guide us in the life ahead.
We are ready to go each our own way.*

Lois Ludy, Harry Howard Demonstrate

Playing the piano gives Lois time to relax and dream.

"Practice makes perfect" thinks Lois as she sinks a foul shot for one.

Harry grins as he receives his long-awaited mug, realizing that it was worth his efforts.

Lois shares after-school moments with her dog Lassie.

Positive Attitudes and Personalities

Lois and Harry visit the Nickelodeon to indulge in a Steamboat Annie.

Harry assists a customer at Dave's Car Wash.

Elected annually by their classmates are Mr. and Miss Senior. This year the Class of '79 chose Lois Ludy and Harry Howard to best represent their ideals.

Lois, an academic student, served as homeroom president and Mu Alpha Theta treasurer. She was also a member of the chorus and National Honor Society. Lois participated in girls' basketball, softball and volleyball. She also performed as BPW Girl of the Month.

Harry, enrolled in the vocational agriculture course, served as homeroom president and secretary of the FFA. He was an applicant for the Keystone Farmer Degree. Harry served as Jaycees' Boy of the Month for November.

Numerous Activities Illustrate Cool

During advanced office technology, Lorie Bruno and Bonita Miller operate an off-set printing press.

Pam Urbain and Lucy Walker try to fatten up Mr. Fridy's pet pig for the Somerset County Fair.

Danish exchange student Morten Pedersen shows Tim Everetts and Walt Piatt that Somerset has its hang-ups.

Varsity football players join in the battle of Rip Em' Up — Tear Em' Up during a pep assembly.

Walt Piatt ponders an answer in a speech-theater test.

And Easy Senior Lifestyle

Seniors are determined to break last year's record by jamming twenty-three bodies into the phone booth.

Mark Bumbarger measures a frame for the dresser he is making in carpentry.

Class Of '79

After giving Queen Pam Shaulis a congratulatory kiss, Mr. Kuhlman settles for a warm clasp of King Bob Sheeler's shoulders.

From September 5 to 18 the class of 1979 turned in $38,731.13 from magazine sales in their drive to finance the Eaglet, outselling the class of 1978 by $2467.30. At the end of one week of their concentrated campaign the seniors had turned in their quota of $19,079, breaking the record of nine days set last year. High Homeroom 104 was responsible for $7,219.07, over twice their quota. Class High Salesmen Pam Shaulis and Bob Sheeler both competed on the Homeroom 104 team. Pam turned in $1,833.82, outselling everyone in the history of Somerset High School magazine sales, while Bob accounted for $1,028.24. For her efforts Pam received a portable color television; Bob chose a Bulova Caravelle wristwatch. Low sales homeroom 112, who also went over their quota, served a turkey dinner to 104. All seniors who sold their quota of $79.00 received an Eagle mascot. Class mugs rewarded everyone who had sold $100.00 worth of magazines.

Seniors did "Shine in '79."

Mr. Bruno has nothing but words of praise for his hard-working, high-selling homeroom.

Both flames and senior spirit leap high as Janie Auman and Brian Custer light the traditional bonfire.

At the beginning of each semester senior high faculty members elected students to represent Somerset Area Senior High School at various service clubs throughout the area. Selections were based on the student's achievement, personality, leadership, character, extra-curricular activities and ability to work with others. Speaking at various club meetings gave each senior representative valuable experience in meeting community adults.

Selected senior boys attended each meeting of the month of Rotary Club, Lions Club, Jaycees and Kiwanis. On their final visit, the boys shared their ideas on a topic of their choice with club members.

Senior girls attended one monthly meeting of the BPW, Women's Club or Soroptimist Club. Each spoke to club members on a topic of her choice or displayed some manner of talent in a performance.

Students Outstanding In Their Fields

Each year seniors with outstanding achievement from various academic departments are chosen by the faculty, who recognize them as leaders in their fields. Courses represented this year included home economics, industrial arts, business and academics. Since several students qualified for the outstanding agricultural senior this year, no one was singled out to receive this award.

Students who have shown leadership qualities throughout their sophomore, junior and senior years are eligible. These qualities include scholastic ability, dependability, cooperation and consistent academic performance. The outstanding industrial arts senior should have received instruction in drafting, metal working and woodworking. For home economics, the senior must have studied clothing, foods, child development and home management. Class standing was the deciding factor for the outstanding academic senior. The business senior had to be enrolled in at least two of the three business courses: secretarial, accounting or clerical.

Headed By Class Officers, Seniors Launch

August 28, 1978 began the final year at Somerset Area Senior High School for the class of 1979. The senior class started their year looking toward the all-important goal of graduation.

Numerous activities highlighted the year, making the last few days of high school memorable ones. Tremendous magazine sales, breaking all previous records, launched the seniors on an eventful year. An unforgettable Soph-Senior in November honored the graduating class. Thanks to talented seniors, the class play, "The Marriage Bit," was a huge success. And, bringing the year to a close with a final get-together, juniors presented them with their prom, "We've Got Tonight."

Seniors awaited the day when they would receive their diplomas. Soon they were marching to the music of "Pomp and Circumstance," to enter the troops of proud Somerset graduates. Ending an old way of life, they began the way to a new destination.

Nancy Welsh wishes she had a giant locker as she attempts to fit her belongings into it.

Three hundred junior class members approached the 1978-79 school year, knowing it would be one full of memories for all. Arrival of class rings and anticipation of the prom with its preparation kept class members busy throughout the year. They were now the middlemen of the senior high. Past the stage of apprehension and not yet at the stage of senioritis, they remembered their fears as sophomores, and looked forward to the time when they too would be the graduating class of Somerset High.

Each class member took advantage of opportunities offered here to develop himself as an individual, while as juniors they grew closer to each other. Realizing that their time together was growing short, they decided to make the most of it.

As the summer of '78 ended, members of the class of 1981 embarked upon their first day as sophomores in the senior high. Upon entering the school they found a whole new atmosphere, one of maturity and respect, full of interest and challenge. Activities rocketed to a fast start when committees began plans for the Soph-Senior, scheduled for early November. Their first successful senior high project proved their class spirit and teamwork. They realized that this year was just the beginning of times they would treasure for the rest of their lives. At the foot of the senior high ladder, they realized that their climb now headed them toward graduation and the world beyond high school.

First period Algebra I students concentrate as Mrs. Bressler factors monomials.

Students laden with books trudge up the steps to their next class.

Finally the ninth graders, 296 strong, were now freshmen. Immersed in studies and organizations, responsibilities of club offices and first string sports positions weighed on their shoulders, while serious thoughts of the future beyond their high school years began to cross their minds.

For the first time, students elected subjects, making decisions about the basic courses that they wanted to follow during high school.

The end of the year meant leaving the junior high to begin a new chapter in their school careers at the senior high. In the three years that they had spent in the junior high, students had shared in a common experience, yet each had come away with his own impression.

Prepositional phrasing calls for some studious work.

As summer drew to a close and the school year approached, the 293 members of the class of 1984 prepared to begin the first phase of their high school life. A bit apprehensive, yet eager to move on, they arrived on the first day ready to meet their classmates and teachers. With memories of orientation day still clear, for the first time they realized that they were no longer on the outside looking in, but were actually a part of Somerset Junior High School.

Changing classes, homerooms, pep assemblies, school dances, yearbooks and Friday night football games were all new and exciting to the seventh graders. Elementary school was gone forever. With newfound friends, class members banded together to move through their high school years.

Gridders end eight points shy of a perfect

Led by a powerful offense, which scored 116 points, and an equally strong defense, which gave up only 34 points, the Junior Eagles began the season with three consecutive shut-outs.

Displaying speed and strength, the Eagles entered their fourth game with a 66-0 point advantage. However, a miscue in defensive coverage led to the only score of the game, and they were defeated 0-6. In their bout against North Star, Eagle pride ran high with a comeback victory of 32-8. Determined to keep with the winning spirit, the team entered their final game, hosting Bedford in the annual night contest. Unable to stop the Bisons in the first two quarters, the Eagles trailed 0-14 at half-time but the second half saw them explode to score three touchdowns. Falling two points shy of victory, the Eagles ended with a final score of 18-20, a discouraging defeat, but a well-fought game.

Behind every good team are its coaches. Filling these shoes were John Minnich and Assistant Jeffrey Ankney, who led the team to a 4-2 record, with only 8 points separating them from an undefeated season.

The skill and agility shown by the team promised a bright future for Somerset's JV and varsity Eagles.

Opening the season with three consecutive wins, the Junior Eagles finished their schedule with a disappointing record of 3-9. Under the direction of James Clay, the cagers gained valuable experience and improved their skills for future team competition.

At the onset of the year, the team had no returning lettermen, forcing them to build on the new starting five. The outlook for next season is brighter due to the experience of the eighth grade starters.

High scorer Tim Emert compiled 125 points for the year, followed by Brian Volkert with 85 points. Leading rebounder was Brian Volkert with 125, while Tom Kalmanir led the team with 26 assists.

In heavy traffic under the basket both teams watch in anticipation as Somerset goes for two.

Little Eagles break two school records

J. R. Ludy extends the baton to Vince Jacob for a clean exchange in the 880 relay.

With teamwork and individual effort, the track squad displayed an impressive season. Coaches John Digruttolo and William Repko anticipated an outstanding season this year because of their ten returning let-termen. And the 1978 team did break two school records during the year. The 440 relay team, consisting of Mike Angermeier, Tom Kalmanir, Pete Sujansky and Ed Pollock broke the old record by one tenth of a second with a time of 49.4. Vince Jacob also shattered the old mark of 5'6" in the high jump; with a leap of 5'8". Though the team lost their first two meets, they came back with four straight wins to finish with a respectable 4-2 record.

Mark McNeel shows Harold Wahl how to properly string a bow in Archery Club.

During the hectic weeks of school, junior high students always looked forward to their activity period. The program's second year of existence was welcomed by a great majority of students.

At the beginning of the year, each student joined one of twenty five different clubs sponsored by the faculty. They met once a week on a rotation of days and periods.

The purpose of these club periods was to provide opportunities for students to explore and expand topics and experiences which were not conducted within the classroom. It also improved student-teacher communication.

Some activities a student could enjoy were sewing and lacing in Leather Craft Club, working on mathematical puzzles and brain teasers in Mathematical and Games Club, publishing a paper in Newspaper Club, discussing the weekly happenings in Let's Talk Sports Club or promoting school spirit with signs, dances and cheering in the Pep Club.

Students greatly enjoyed the club period, which gave them a chance to relax through the busy school week.

Art Club officers are Lisa Svonavec, vice president; Rowena Cube, president; Dave Kissinger, treasurer; and Mr. John Minnich, advisor.

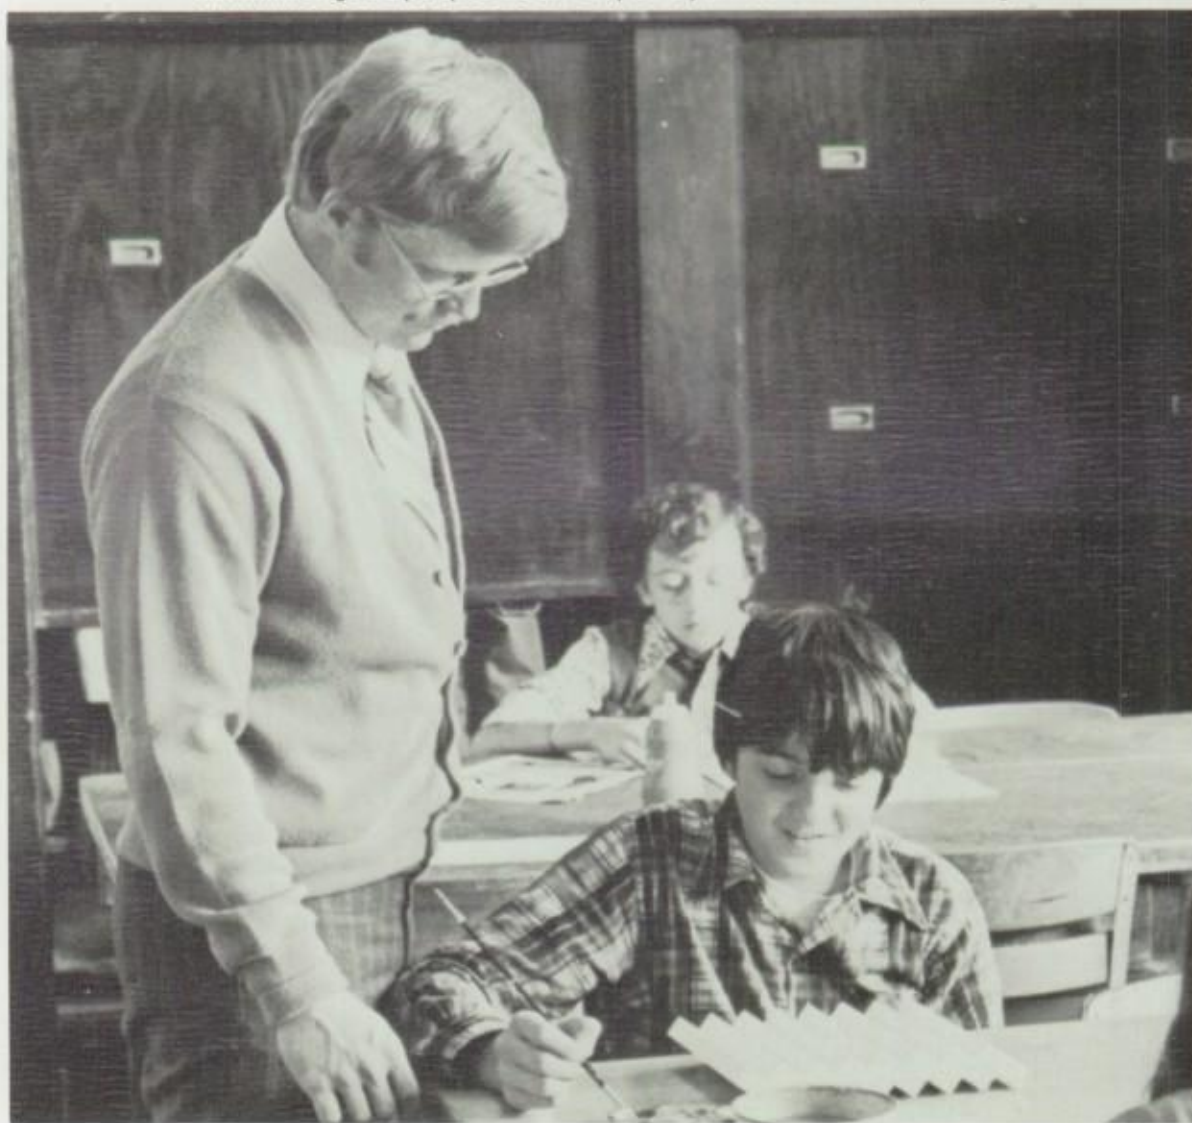

Art Club sells projects to finance trips

Mr. Minnich gets a perspective on Terry Dively's three-dimensional painting.

Under the direction of Mr. John Minnich, the Junior High Art Club met every Wednesday from 3:30 to 5:30 to broaden their talents in art. President Rowena Cube, Vice-President Lisa Svonavec and Treasurer Dave Kissinger made up the roster of officers.

The club traveled to Frank Lloyd Wright's Falling Water and toured Pittsburgh's Sarah Scaife Art Gallery to augment their art appreciation.

Among many activities this year, club members displayed their projects from time to time in uptown store windows. They held art sales, where exhibits highlighted junior high instrumental and choral concerts. Visiting artists spoke at club meetings about various aspects of art, giving demonstrations of their work.

Energetic junior high cheerleaders promoted school spirit during pep assemblies and games to cheer their teams on to victory. Functioning as individual sports advisors were Mrs. Patricia McNaul, football; Mrs. Emma Jean Mostoller, girls basketball; Mrs. Mary Critchfield, boys basketball; Mrs. Pam Diesel, wrestling; and Mrs. Linda Henry, cheerleading practice. Cheerleaders attended the annual three-day summer camp with the senior high cheerleaders to learn new cheers and compose signs for upcoming sports seasons.

Under the direction of Mr. Robert Griffith, majorettes twirled and marched at pep assemblies, the Halloween parade and the Memorial Day parade with the eighth-ninth grade band. They performed a halftime routine at the Bedford football game. The girls also assisted the seventh grade majorettes in creating and practicing their routines.

Mr. Griffith gives the down beat for the start of "Song for the Young."

First chair members include (top) Jeff Nunnari, Doug Bowman, Tim Long, (bottom) Lisa Barndt, Carolyn Williams and Terrisa Kelly.

Festival Of Bands Highlights Active Year

Headed by Conductor Robert Griffith, the junior high bands continued with large enrollments, with approximately two hundred students involved. The seventh grade band had 70 new instrumentalists, while 125 musicians made up the eighth-ninth grade band. These two bands presented programs to the junior high student body and the public in their annual spring concert, also being featured in the junior high Festival of Bands in April.

The eighth-ninth grade band played for all pep and sport assemblies throughout the school year as well as performing at the junior high football game against Bedford. They also added spark to the community by marching in the Halloween parade, Memorial Day parade and ceremonies at the Husband Cemetery and presenting a concert at the Bakersville picnic in September. Many outstanding eighth and ninth grade instrumentalists achieved top chairs and other honors in the All-County Junior Band, held March 7-10.

The seventh grade band presented concerts to the Maple Ridge, Friedens and Sipesville elementary schools as well as during junior high orientation day.

The eighth-ninth grade band works hard at rehearsal.

County Orchestra Hosted By Somerset

Orchestra members wait for their entrance in "Wild Wood Flower."

Junior high Tri-County's orchestra festival marked the highlight of the year, as it was hosted by the Somerset junior high orchestra. Seven schools from three counties harmonized in preparation for their performance on April 7th. They rehearsed for two days in the auditorium under the baton of guest conductor Mr. Donald Barra, conductor of the Johnstown Symphony and Youth Symphony Orchestras.

Under the direction of Mr. Herbert McDowell, the 56-member orchestra, comprised of seventh, eighth and ninth grade students, rehearsed every Monday and Thursday fifth period.

After hours of practice, the orchestra displayed their talent to the public in their annual spring concert, held in conjunction with that of the senior high orchestra on this festive night.

Among the orchestra's selections were "Highlights of West Side Story" and "Symphony No. 20 in C Minor."

In June, several junior high musicians participated in Baccalaureate and Commencement orchestra to fill spots vacated by seniors.

Mr. McDowell thinks of the upcoming Tri-County orchestra festival.

Club Ends Season With Slalom Event

As they hoped for lots of snow, the Junior High Ski Club formed this year under the direction of Mr. John Berkey. Headed by President Elizabeth Critchfield, the club utilized the excellent skiing facilities in the area. Ski club was an afterschool activity open to any junior high student interested in learning how to ski. Its purpose was to acquire enjoyable and competent skiing techniques from certified professionals.

Ski Club members ventured to Hidden Valley on five Wednesday evenings. On the final evening club members had the opportunity to participate in slalom competition with other members of the club.

Wishing for more snow, Susan Shaulis and Amy Sheeler scan the sky.

Expanding on their vocal skills, the members of the chorus met fifth period every Tuesday. Mr. Jack Dice served as director of the group.

The chorus presented two concerts this year. At Christmas they performed for the student body. The girls ensemble highlighted the program by singing the selection "Don't Let Go at Christmas."

The Spring choral concert was a program for parents of the students in the group and other interested music fans. A newly formed boys ensemble made its debut at the spring concert.

Accompanists for the chorus were Julie Angermeier, Miriam Tensuan, Monique Wong and Janice Dunlap.

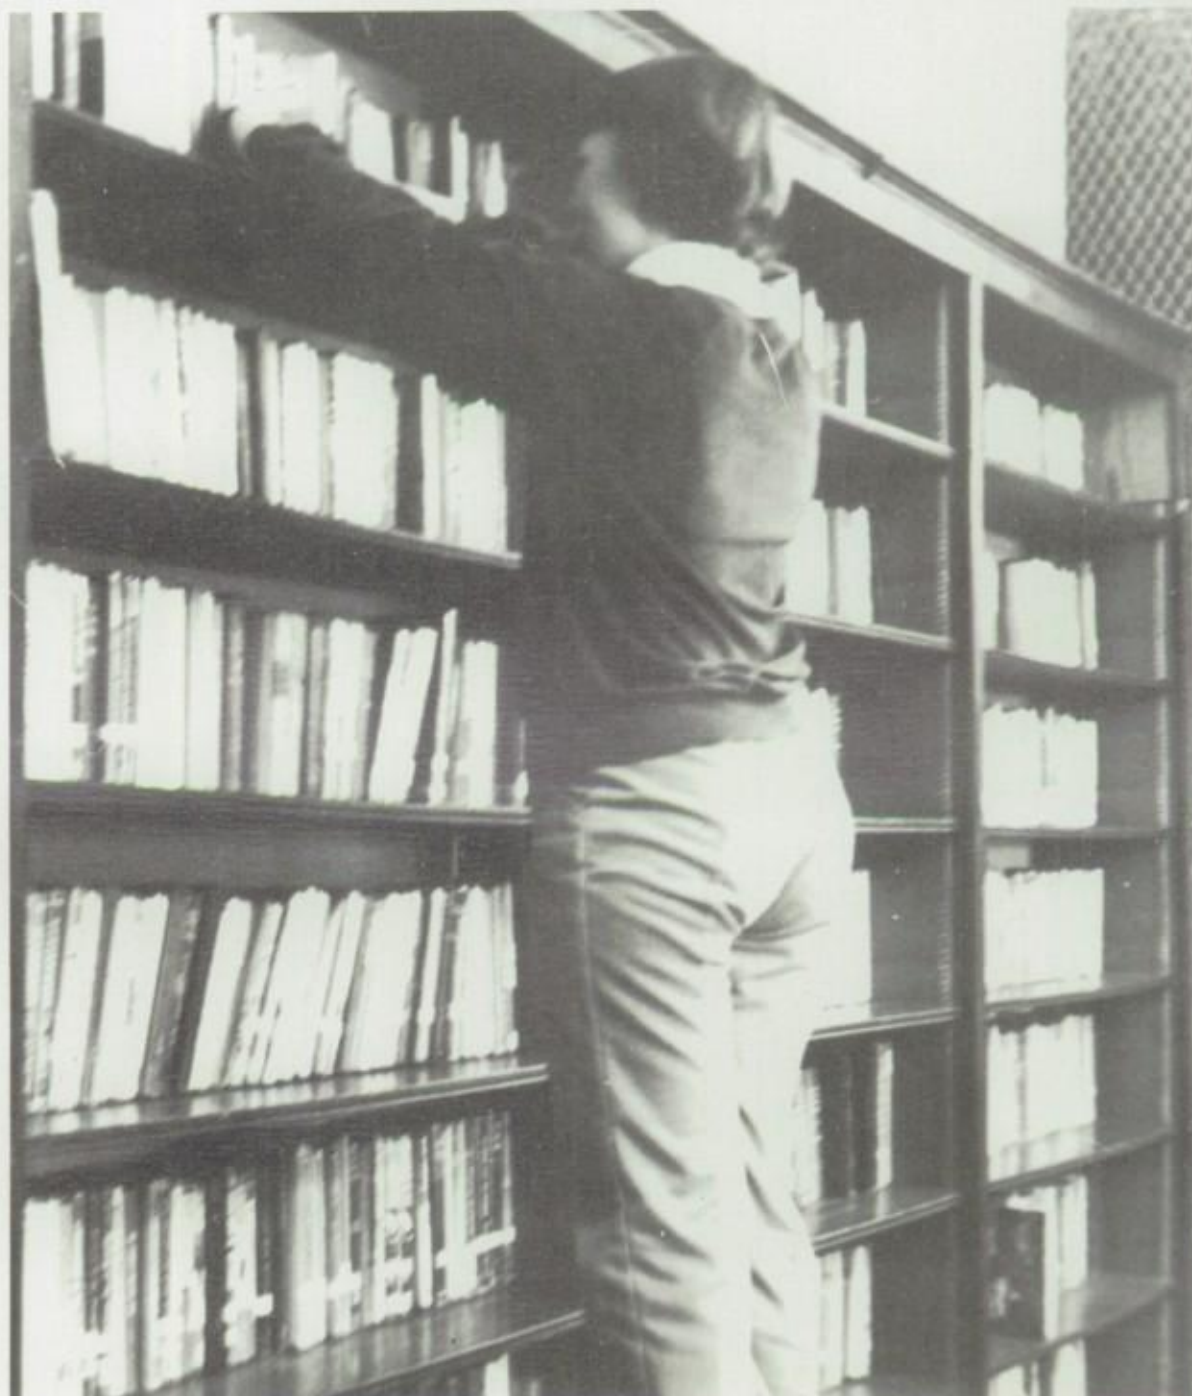

Heading Library Club this year were Advisor Mrs. Finnette Egolf, President Julie Wilson, Secretary-Treasurer Lucy Horner and Vice-President Tom Courtney.

Club members contribute time to library

With the guidance of Mrs. Finnette Egolf, the thirty-six members of the Library Club operated smoothly. Each member worked in the library one study hall period a week, performing such tasks as typing overdue notices to students, arranging file cards in order that books could be readily located, shelving magazines and books, working at the circulation desk, mending and repairing books, and decorating the monthly bulletin board.

During her study hall, Nancy Smith stretches to straighten books on the top shelf.

Council attends state convention

Meetings and activities were spearheaded by Treasurer Sharon Rizzo, Vice-President Miriam Tensuan, President Lisa Svonavec, and Secretary Darlette Winck.

Energetic Student Council members showed enthusiasm this year with the help of Advisor David McCall. Heading the list of fund-raising projects was the selling of Pennsylvania Dutch Butter Mints and Eagle emblem T-shirts. Members also sold popcorn and candy at football games and dances. And Council continued to sponsor their store, which offered notebooks, pencils and pens.

Halloween and Christmas dances sponsored by the Student Council added a spark to the school year, along with Council-sponsored trips to the Ice Capades and a Pirate baseball game.

For the first time the Student Council, represented by four of its members, took part in a statewide student council convention, which was held at Bishop Guilfoyle High School in Altoona. Here they learned various ways to promote school spirit and gathered ideas on assemblies.

Council members and teachers that made up the Student-Teachers Relations Committee were active throughout the year, concentrating their attention on setting up school policy and the Council constitution.

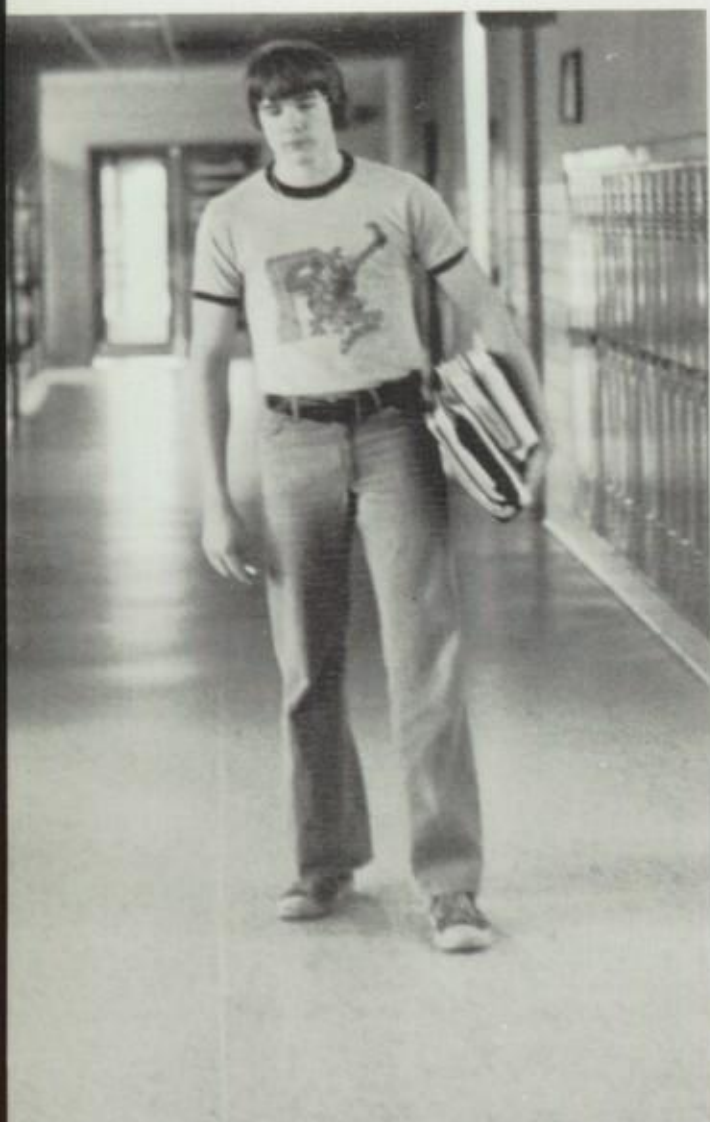

Dress-up, Orange and Black, Clash, and newly formed Tie and Class Colors Days continued to keep up student morale.

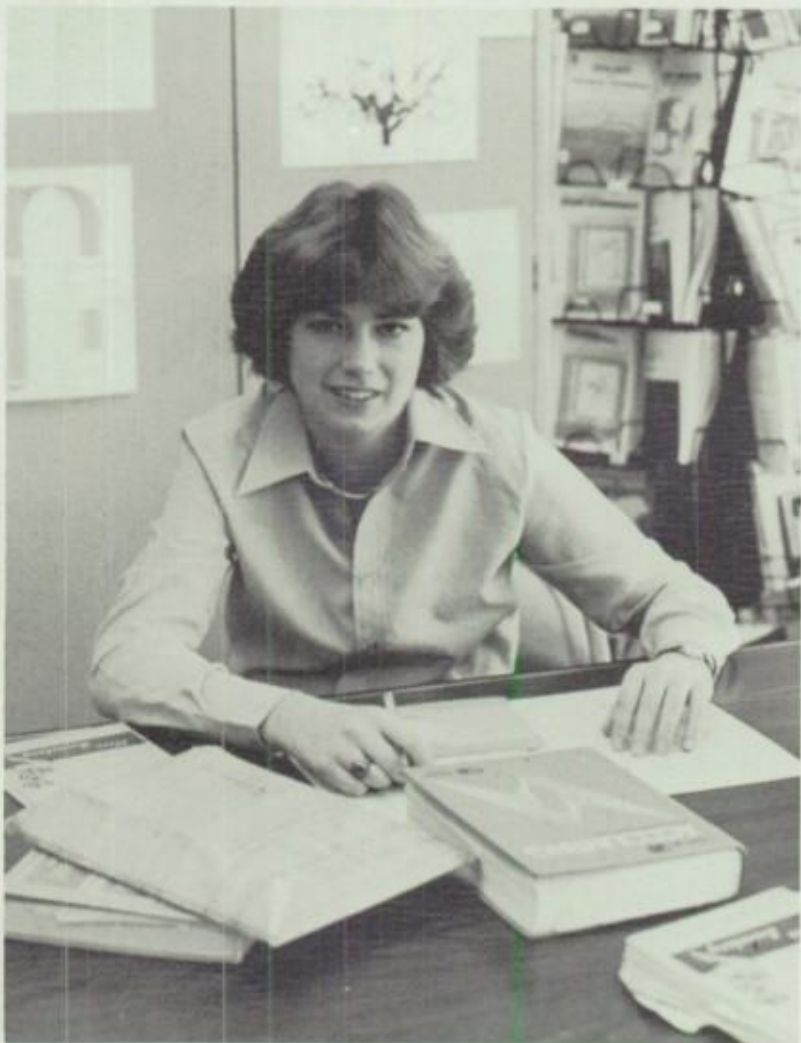

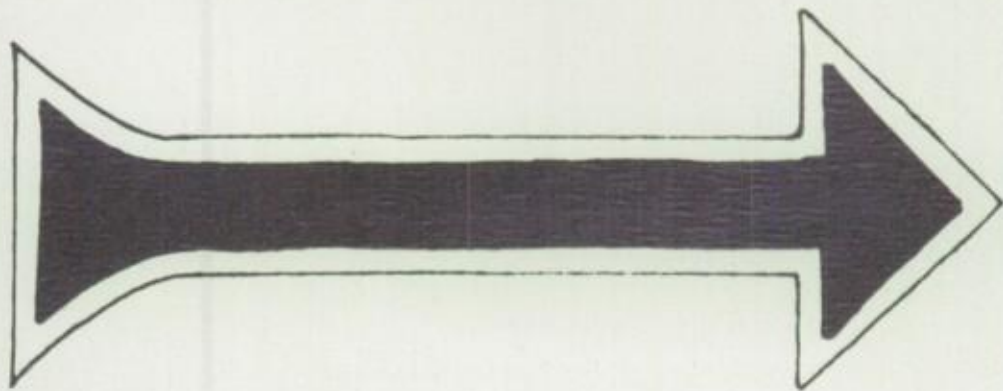

Darlette Winck and Juan Gonzales advertise for the upcoming Halloween dance as Lisa Svonavec and Mary Boose look on.

skills in junior and senior math courses

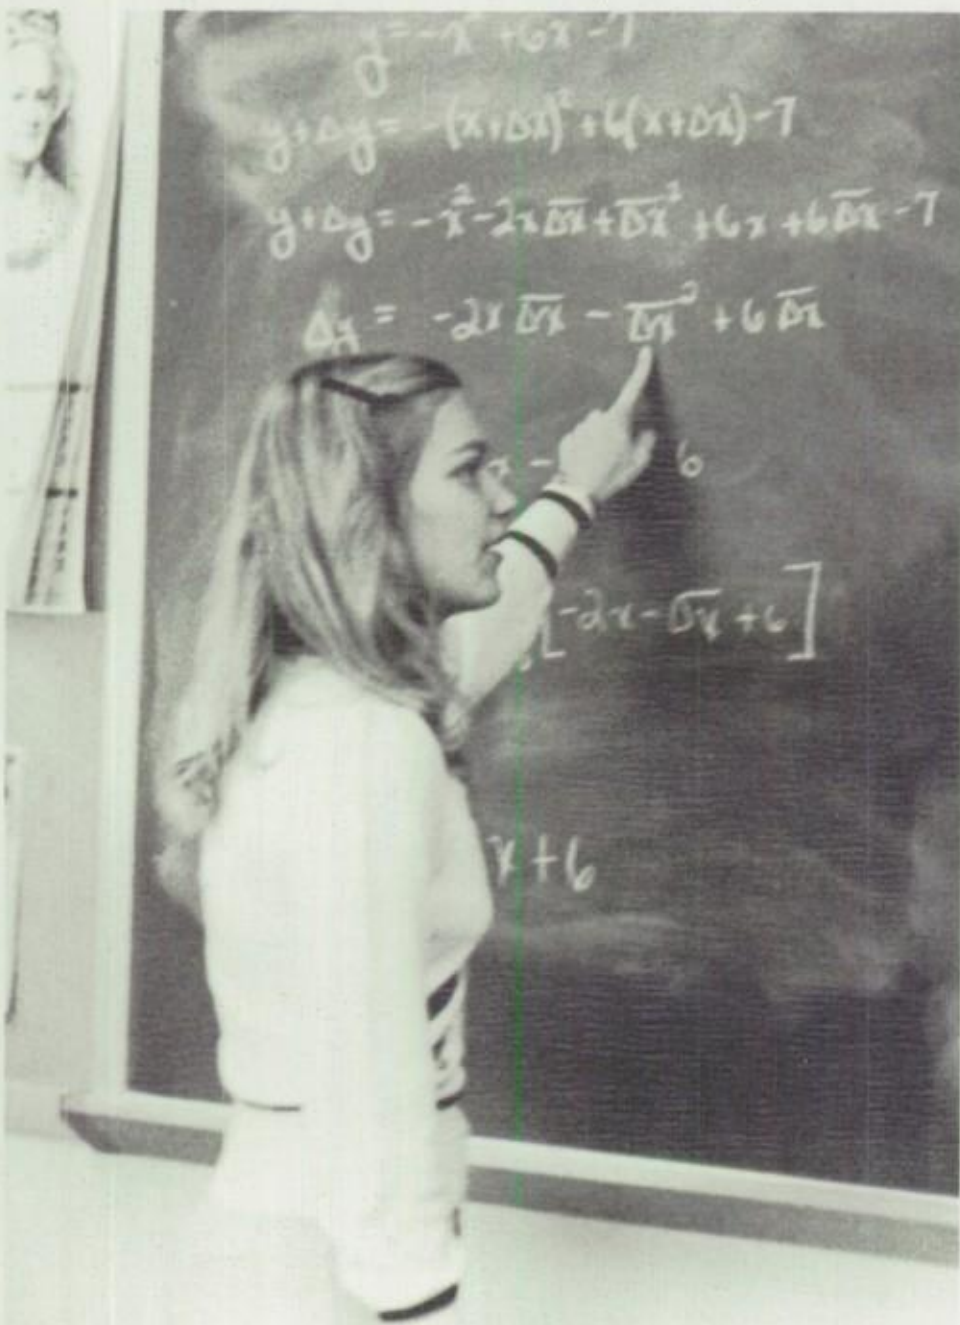

Ninth grade students concentrate hard in order to finish their Algebra I test before the bell rings.

Thirty-two seniors, the most ever, toughened their schedule by taking two math courses this year in preparation for college. The courses consisted of Analytic Geometry/Introductory Calculus and Trigonometry/Algebra III. These students were eligible to participate in Mu Alpha Theta to extend their mathematical knowledge.

Juniors learned how to solve quadratic equations, work with logarithms, and factor in Algebra II. Freshmen prepared for their course in Algebra I by learning basic algebraic maneuvers. Sophomore geometry students learned theorems and postulates, applying them in two-column deductive proofs during the year.

Seventh and eighth graders spent the year preparing for higher mathematics courses by studying and refining the basic fundamentals of mathematics that they had learned in elementary school.

Physics, anatomy, and advanced science courses were open to seniors this year. Advanced science students worked on projects that pertained to their specific interests, while physics students studied and experienced theories of motion, friction, force, and energy through involved laboratory experiments. Students interested in the medical profession studied systems of the human body in anatomy.

Chemistry students, under the guidance of Mr. Dale Phillippi, participated in labs exploring the whys and hows of chemical reactions.

Sophomores involved in general and lab biology classified all forms of life and how they function.

Students of seventh and eighth grade science courses participated in studies according to their interests. Freshmen split their year by studying earth science one semester and introductory biology the other.

Should geography be a required course in the junior high?

It should be taught along with the social studies courses. — Miss Berkley

Should teachers state their political views in the classroom?

Yes. A well considered point of view relative to all sides of an issue can be both educational and stimulating. — Mr. Ankney

How extensively should teachers become involved in community life?

That is up to the individual teacher to decide. Only he can establish his priorities for his spare time. — Mr. Kissinger

If you weren't teaching social studies, what would you be doing?

I almost went into law. I assume I would be either an attorney or a journalist. — Mr. Egolf

I would be retired. — Mr. Bressler

Midterm and local elections added extra interest to social studies classes this year.

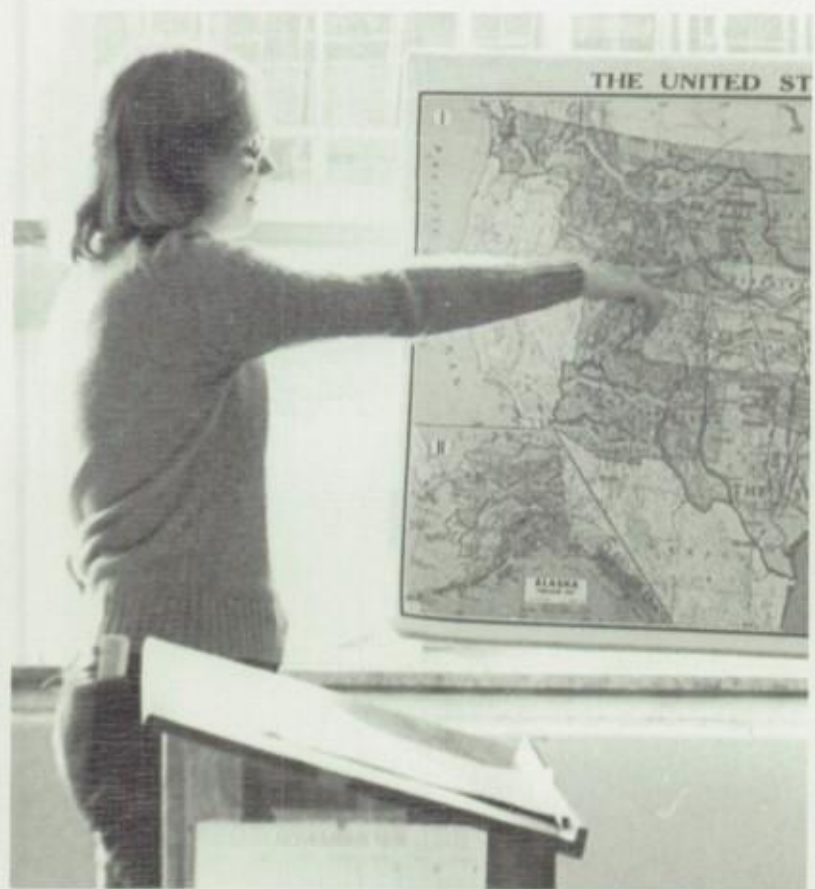

POD students tried a different approach in learning about candidates and elections by supporting gubernatorial candidates Peter Flaherty or Richard Thornburgh.

Juniors gained insight into the forming of our government in American Cultures II. They started at the beginning of our history when the English settlers came to the New World, progressing through the tragedies of the Civil War. In World Cultures II sophomores delved into the causes of World War I and World War II.

Civics students got an introduction to POD by discussing state and local government. Sunken treasure took up a good deal of time in American Cultures I. Students also perused the American Revolution.

World Cultures I students gained an introduction to antiquity by experimenting with different Roman foods and participating in their own version of Scholastic Quiz.

class to participate in poetry workshop

"Well, if you can do it better, do it!", replies Michele Hixson to some unwanted advice on a logic problem from one of her friends in her third period journalism class.

This year junior and senior high students were busy planning and delivering speeches, writing poetry and themes, working on vocabulary lessons and learning basic grammar.

Speech/theater participants gave informative and persuasive speeches, later acted out skits in their classrooms and on stage. In October and November newspaper journalism classes went on field trips to the Pittsburgh Press and to the University of Pittsburgh at Johnstown for a press seminar, where they participated in various workshops.

Vo-Tech English classes completed book reports, worked with magazines and studied grammar from their textbooks.

The senior high enjoyed the visit of Mr. H. L. Van Brunt for a one-week poetry workshop in November, while the junior high had their poetry workshop in the spring.

Projects To Prepare For Business World

Lori Heist, Pam Williams and Joyce Pugh discuss their business assignment after class.

A wide range of courses were offered through the business program. Students arranged classes for a schedule best suited to the field of business that they planned to pursue.

There were three typing classes. The Typing I class provided for a personal level of achievement. Here typing skills and rhythm were improved by typing to music. Typing II and III was offered to those who wished to further their stenographic knowledge. Here students typed business letters and other business forms.

Office and clerical practice students worked in an office atmosphere to develop fundamental office skills.

The sales class put their training to practice by managing the senior magazine sales, mortgage burning, and sale and distribution of yearbooks.

Other courses offered included shorthand, accounting, business English and math.

Sales students Jodie Dunmeyer, Carolyn D'Aniello, Becky McCall, and Jackie White compare the signs they have made for yearbook sales.

French, German, Spanish Studies Offer

Spanish, French and German made the scene in the senior and junior high.

Seventh graders sampled German for one semester while eighth graders spent a semester on both introductory Spanish and French. Basic foundations of each language helped students decide which language to take during their freshman year, possibly continuing throughout high school.

Senior high students expanded their knowledge, vocabulary and correct usage of these languages by presenting and playing word games. Life styles and history of the countries were also studied.

Various activities highlighted the year for many language students. Spanish and French groups went Christmas caroling at the Somerset Community and State Hospitals. German classes attended the annual Springs folk festival.

Wilmer Mills and Mike Fleming debate over the correct answer to a question in their workbooks.

Special education programs in the junior and senior high this year worked at expanding academic and practical knowledge. The senior high schedule combined work experience in the morning with academic classes in the afternoon. Their work experience program, carried on with the cooperation of the various industries and retailers in the community, prepared students for a more promising future by training them in jobs they can pursue after graduating, while offering personal satisfaction for the students. Academic subjects studied in the afternoon included math, American history, language arts, reading, and other areas applicable to everyday living.

Junior high students prepared for the added responsibility of work experience in the senior high by developing their academic backgrounds. Students acquired and improved basic skills in speech, math, health and history in addition to reading and studying about foreign countries.

Students crowd into the bus for an early morning trip to their work experience.

Panorama Of Vocational And Technical

Students who chose to prepare directly for their future careers while in school attended vo-tech school on a bi-weekly basis. At vo-tech students concentrated on areas of specific interest to them. As a result they learned useful trades while obtaining on-the-job experience in many areas. An added benefit was learning to work with students from other Somerset County schools involved in the vocational system.

Activities included Vocational Industrial Clubs of America, Distributive Education Clubs of America, dances, assemblies, intramural softball, forestry field day, and FFA fruit sale, sweetheart contest, basketball team and state officers convention.

Students learned the academics of their areas in theory classes.

At the end of the year seniors who had successfully passed their course graduated from the vo-tech school in a graduation ceremony separate from their home school commencements.

George Koharchik works intently to finish his drafting assignment.

Students must be accurate in cutting so that every piece fits.

Junior high shop students developed basic skills in metal shop and woodworking. Precision measurements were an important aspect of both courses. Woodshop students learned cutting, surfacing and planing techniques, while metal shop students practiced how to cut, solder, rivet and weld. Senior high metal and wood shop students used these basic skills to design and build more advanced individual projects.

Junior high mechanical drawing students developed skills with basic drafting tools and concepts. Senior high students further delved into drafting by putting the skills learned in junior high to use in designing and drawing complex house plans. Industrial blueprints were aids in learning.

Holly Walker checks for loose stitches as she does the final sewing on her coat collar.

Male interest and participation in home ec increased sharply in both junior and senior high. Over one-third of the enrolled students were boys. Junior high sewing classes learned basic skills by making stuffed animals, skirts and pants. Boys in this course made T-shirts and stuffed footballs. In cooking classes students learned to follow and read recipes. Career research was also part of the course, which reviewed the whole process of getting a job, including the job interview.

Senior high foods classes developed basic, creative, and foreign food skills. Sewing classes worked on individual projects in a wide variety of choices. Both junior and senior high cooking classes held faculty teas.

Child development classes, under the supervision of Mrs. Marjorie Ankney, conducted two sessions of nursery school for pre-kindergarten children. Each session lasted approximately one month. A graduation ceremony climaxed nursery school, with each child receiving a diploma.

Do you think it is a good idea for boys to take home economics? Why or why not?

The arrival of Mr. Arnold Wilson brought a new face to the agriculture department this year. Through his assistance students learned practical outlooks which could be carried outside of school.

Effective farm management in today's world courses covered plant science, small gas engines, agricultural mechanics, work experience and FFA activities. Senior high agriculture students kept record books with the number of hours they worked on their projects and what each project hoped to accomplish. They could also choose to work at an agriculture-related job.

Interested students from the junior high traveled to the senior high every day to attend a ninth-grade pre-careers class, which directed them toward the senior high agriculture program.

What do you feel is the biggest reward from a career in agriculture?

The biggest reward is knowing you contribute to the welfare of the world by helping to provide food.

One-way streets new for student drivers

Angie Bowlby and Coleen Collins show George Maslak that women can change tires too.

This year students taking on-the-road training had to consider the added aspect of driving on Somerset's new one-way streets.

Under the direction of Mr. Pfeffer and Mr. Maslak, drivers education taught students the basic techniques of parallel parking, three-point turnarounds and travel under various road and weather conditions.

Highway safety, a required subject for all students in their sophomore year, prepared them for on-the-road training. Students that have completed both courses benefit from insurance rates.

Coed Gym, Class Tournaments Help

Coed physical education classes made their debut at the junior high, enabling boys and girls to participate equally in various gym activities. These activities included basketball, volleyball and tennis. Junior high boys also wrestled and practiced gymnastics.

Physical fitness tests were an important part of the course, as they are every year. Students who achieved qualifying scores received the Presidential Physical Fitness patch and certificate.

Senior high girls folk danced to the minuet and the highland fling, along with learning basic disco routines. They also dug, dunked, and spiked during their power volleyball games. Senior high boys concentrated on the fundamentals of paddle ball. At the conclusion of the six weeks period a tournament narrowed the field of players one by one until a champion team emerged.

Students again experienced swimming during the fourth and fifth grading periods. After the classes had swimming, they studied first aid. Here they practiced bandaging, mouth-to-mouth resuscitation, and CPR techniques. Mrs. Nancy Hay taught first aid while Mr. Carr instructed the swimming classes.

Do you think swimming is an asset to the physical education program?

"Yes, every student should know how to swim and this provides the opportunity for every student. — Mrs. Jean Gerber

Ninth grade girls enjoy a leisurely game of basketball.

What do you enjoy most about your job?

"My job is most satisfying when I have helped students. I enjoy working with and helping the students. The results of helping students can be 'a thing of beauty and a joy forever.' "

— Mrs. Halverson

Mrs. Martha Halverson

Mrs. Finnette Egolf

Lori Kriesel assures Barry Halverson that by the time he's a senior he'll be able to reach the top book shelf.

Students Make Use Of Libraries

Students in both junior and senior high took advantage of the many resources their libraries had to offer throughout the year. Libraries were open in the morning and during study halls for students to research information or to just browse around. Diversified books ranging from science fiction to the well-known classics provided a wide selection for varied student interests. Magazines were also available in both libraries for students' assignments and pleasure reading.

Mrs. Halverson was on hand to offer assistance to students at the senior high, while Mrs. Egolf aided students at the junior high.

During a free period Sherri Haupt takes advantage of the many magazines the library has to offer.

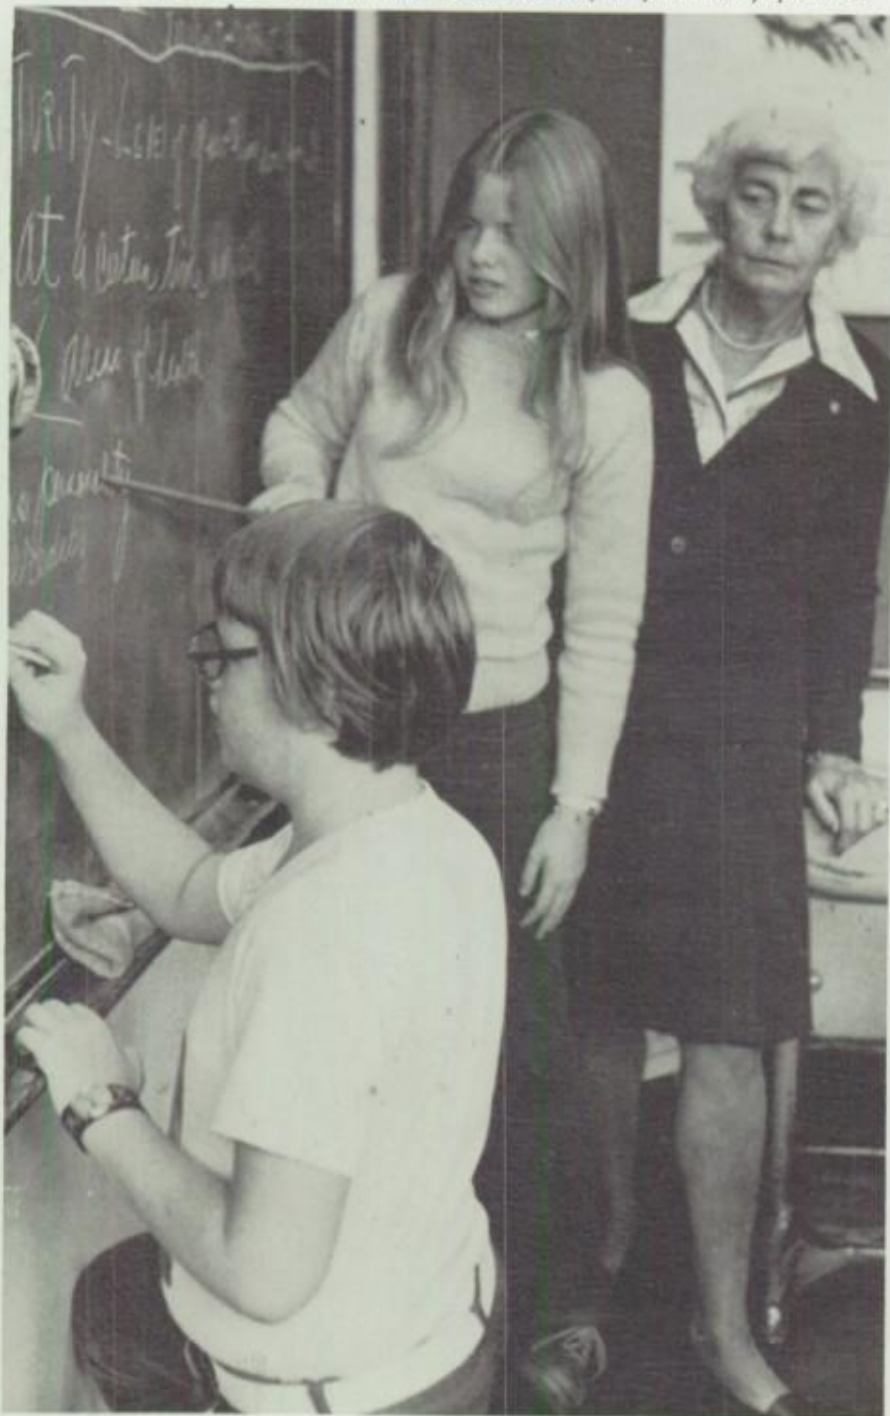

Health Courses Cover Heredity, Maturity

In anatomy class, Ramona Myers shows Sandy Sandusky parts of the skull while Dawn Hauger studies the hand.

Mrs. Scharf watches Scott Shaulis and Deanna Dickey list personality qualities.

Anatomy classes studied aspects of the body, including bones, nerves, muscles and systems. Dissection of a cat served as a visual aid in the study of basic anatomic systems. Students also had an opportunity to learn the correct procedure in taking blood tests.

Junior high health students learned about their behavior and personalities and what affects them. The hazards of drug and alcohol abuse were course highlights. Students also gave health-related current event reports during class.

Sophomores studied many similar subjects in their health classes. A guest speaker spoke on the dangers of alcohol use by teenagers. In the study of proper nutrition students created balanced menus to apply their knowledge of vitamins, protein, carbohydrates and food exchange.

Mrs. Ruth Coleman

Mrs. Betty Scharf

What do you feel is the most important medical discovery, and why?

The capability of transplanting worn-out or damaged organs from others who wish to supply them. This has given many people a second chance for life.

— Mrs. Coleman

Music Studies Add Color, Harmony To Life

Students hoping to broaden their background in music elected band, orchestra, chorus and jazz band. Instrumental instructors included Mr. McDowell, directing band, orchestra and jazz band in the senior high, and Mr. Griffith, directing band in the junior high. Mr. Dice conducted choruses in both schools. This year a wind ensemble composed of members of the senior high band who had special interests in music came on the scene. Members practiced during school and after-school hours. In one or two periods each week students took advantage of instrumental and choral lessons to help improve their individual skills.

Music theory and appreciation class trained senior high students who were thinking of possible careers in music.

The junior high music program included general music classes, which enabled students to learn the basics of many types of music.

After school, Tom Berkebille and Mr. McDowell go over a difficult run in the wind ensemble music.

Judi Heiple practices "Symphonic Dance No. 3" before her band audition.

Mrs. Jenny Harris

Mr. Robert Griffith

Mr. John Dice

Who is your favorite group; why?

The Philadelphia Symphony Orchestra, directed by Eugene Ormandy and the Tonite Show band, directed by Doc Severenson, because they both have superb and talented musicians.

— Mr. McDowell

The Beatles. They composed practically everything they performed and recorded. Much of their music has been arranged and played by other groups.

— Mr. Griffith

Mr. Herbert McDowell

Mrs. Virginia Ankney

Mr. John Minnich

Mr. Homer Hinzy

What do you enjoy most about your job?

All phases — I enjoy working with people and in art especially because the aim, goal, or end result of art study and art work is individual and no one answer is correct for everyone. In this area two and two do not necessarily have to make four.

— Mrs. Ankney

Personal contact with students.

— Mr. Minnich

The self-satisfaction a student derives as the result of developing an idea in visual form.

— Mr. Hinzy

Artists Display Work At Open House

Kevin Miller puts the finishing touches on a mug before it goes to the kiln.

Seventh grade art students were introduced to art in a way they had never experienced in elementary school. They learned backgrounds of many artists and different styles of painting, drawing and sculpture. Eighth and ninth graders were able to elect art courses, where they chose the type of projects they preferred to work on.

Art courses in the senior high offered ambitious art students work on more complicated problems. Many of their projects made up displays at band, orchestra and chorus concerts, as well as during open house. Art students also created program covers for many school activities. Highlighting the year was their decoration of windows at McDonald's for the Halloween and Christmas seasons.

Highlighting this year's school board business was the unanimous decision to construct a new junior high school for grades six through nine. Plans were also initiated to build an addition to the Maple Ridge Elementary School. The junior high, Patriot Street and Union Street schools would then be closed.

New wall and wrestling mats enabled the senior high wrestlers to practice in the field house. Mats also augmented the junior high wrestling program.

Two new men joined the maintenance staff, while a new truck improved the maintenance department's inventory.

Several junior high science classes received new science books with the introduction of a new series.

Old sections of the Friedens elementary school received a face-lift, with some rooms displaying new carpeting.

Various School Employees Are Asset

Responsibilities of the guidance counselors included helping students select or change courses and advising on career choices or personal problems. Mrs. Pamela Diesel substituted for Mrs. Kemp this year as the freshman-sophomore guidance counselor.

Mrs. Phyllis Miller and Mrs. Virginia Bauernmaster assisted the guidance counselors by processing and mailing college applications, while providing information on scholarships and grants to college-bound students. They also were in charge of the vocational resource room.

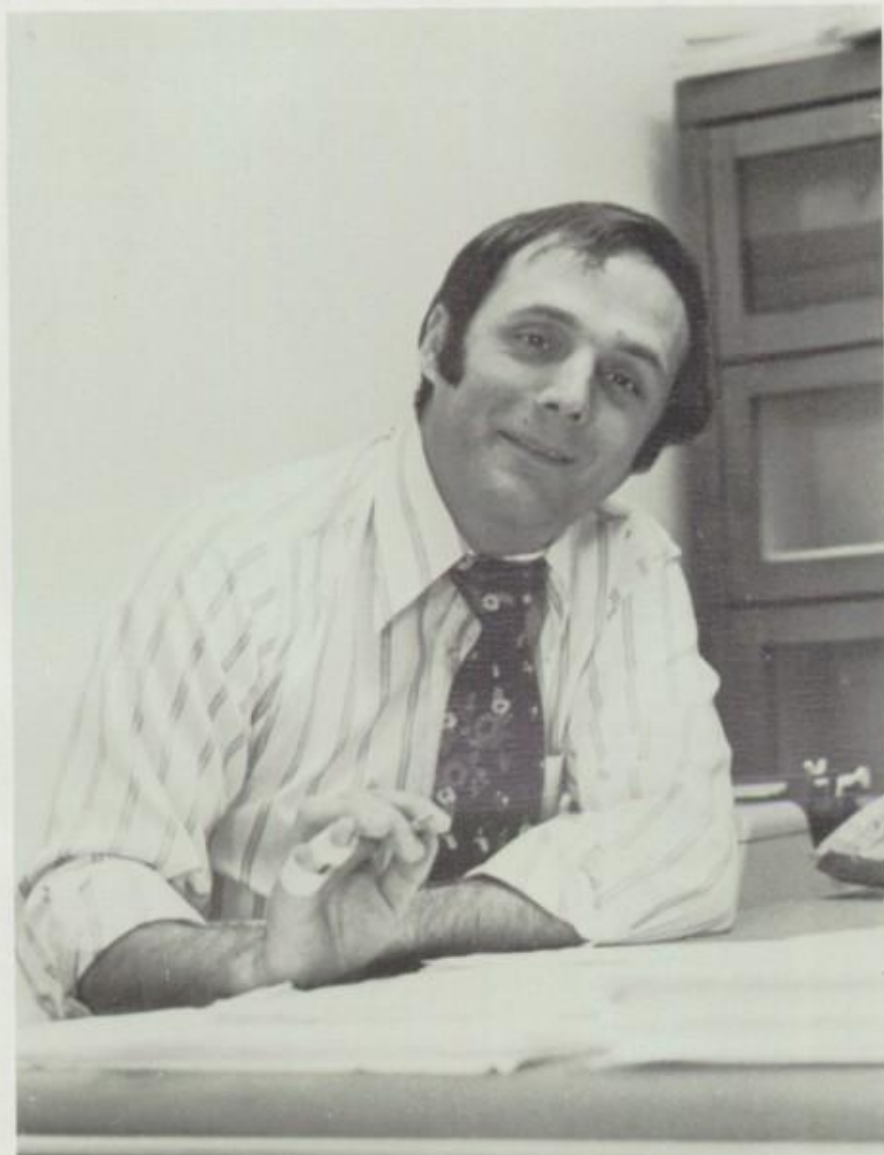

Mrs. Shirley Keafer, school nurse, was on hand at the junior or senior high for students who became ill. She gave annual basic check-ups to selected students. She also helped supervise the inoculation program in the school this year.

Mr. Holsinger, home and school visitor, handled student excuses and absenteeism. He also kept attendance records.

Administrative assistant Mr. Brown had charge of the school's bussing program. He also took care of the audio-visual equipment in the junior and senior high and took over Mr. Kuhlman's responsibilities when the senior high principal was called out of the building.

Busy staff keeps school wheels rolling

The staff on duty in the cafeteria made a pleasing, well-balanced meal for students and faculty each day. They also prepared meals for special events such as band and orchestra festivals and the dinner meeting of the Middle States Association and Somerset faculty members during our school evaluation on October 31.

The secretaries helped keep everything in order by making announcements, answering telephones, filing, answering students' questions, overseeing sign-ins and sign-outs, issuing work permits and running the many machines in the office. They kept everything going smoothly from day to day.

Maintenance personnel polish, repair

Senior High Custodians Lloyd Mort, Ronald Yinkey, Donald Smith

Senior High Custodian David Faidley, Head Custodian Kenneth Hoffman

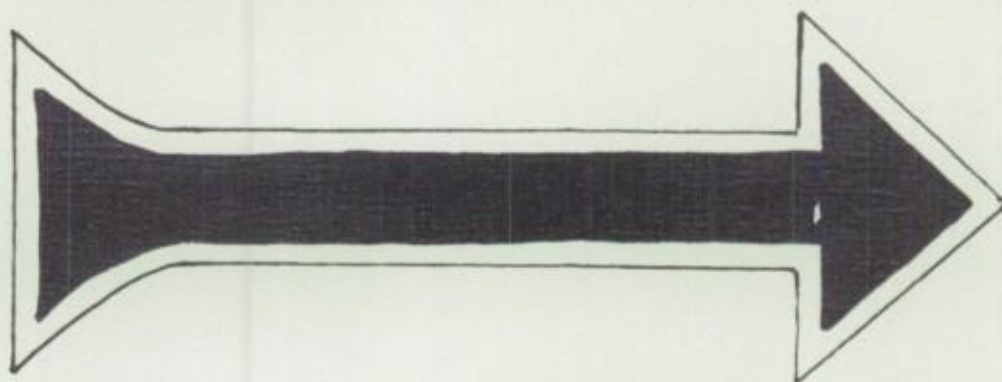

Custodians at the Junior and Senior High did many things to help improve the schools. They swept floors, cleaned blackboards and carried on general maintenance throughout the schools. During the summer they cleaned and painted the building, while making repairs for the new school term. During Christmas vacation they waxed all floors and had the schools spic and span for the students' new year. Custodians were always available to open the schools for after-hour activities. Unjamming lockers was also a skill of the custodians, as many grateful students learned.

Five game winning streak highlights

The 1978 football team, under the leadership of coach Robert Brougher, came out of camp in August to a slow start, losing their first three games. But the 0-3 Eagles then rallied for five consecutive victories, losing a heartbreaker to a tough Conemaugh Township team in the last game of the season.

The Eagle defense held tough all through the year, but the gridder's offense didn't get going until the third game, when they lost by a single touchdown to Forest Hills. Highlights of the season were shutouts against Richland, Westmont, North Star and Ligonier, all held off by a stubborn defensive line.

At the close of the season Wade Acker was chosen Jownstown Tribune-Democrat Athlete-Scholar. The Southern Allegheny Football Coaches Association chose Acker offensive MVP for the Eagles and named Brad Berkebile defensive MVP.

Eagle team members were further recognized when Wade Acker, Brad Berkebile, John Mostoller and Jake Spangler were nominated for the "Big 33" team, composed of the top thirty-three players in the state.

Girls crowned champions of District V

Under the leadership of Coach James Clay, the girls rallied to a 14-2 season, losing only to Shanksville. In their first game against the Vikings, the Eagles fell behind in the third quarter and lost the game 72-48. In the second game with Shanksville, losing 27-13 at halftime, the Eagles came alive in the third quarter and brought the score within eleven points, but fell short at the end with a final count of 52-43.

Somerset then advanced to the District V AA playoffs, rated as the top team. Somerset defeated Bedford for the district title in a 55-52 thriller. In that game, Bedford had a 17-14 advantage after the first quarter, but Somerset hustled to a 30-26 lead at halftime. Lois Ludy and Kelly Sherbine, combining for 35 points, helped upend the Bedford Bisons for Somerset's first District V girls basketball crown. The victory qualified the Eagles for interdistrict and state playoffs in March. Lois Ludy and Kelly Sherbine won places on the All-County First Team, Billie Stutzman on the second team, and Veil James and Joan Meyer on the Honorable Mention roster.

The junior varsity posted a 15-1 record, their only loss coming from Meyersdale. They defeated Shanksville twice, overpowering them 39-31 and 40-29.

Eagle golfers turn in double wins over

Four returning lettermen, John Emert, Tom Egolf, Dave Hillegas and Richard Shaffer, led the golf team to a 4-6 record. The Eagles defeated Berlin and Rockwood each twice.

The team, under the direction of Coach Richard Colliver placed fourth in the District V play-offs at Bedford Springs.

In the last matchup of the season against Bedford, John Emert captured medalist honors with a par 72.

Rounding out the golf squad for 1978-79 were Senior Mike Knecht, Juniors Fred Shaffer, Tom Ogle and Sam Rascona, and Sophomore William Schrock.

Craig Barron Leads Hoopsters As High

Under the coaching of Mr. Robert Sembower, the boys basketball team posted a 4-20 record. Handicapped by the loss of key lettermen, the Eagles worked hard to prepare themselves for their opening game against Rockwood. At halftime in a hard fought contest they were ahead, with the score 24-13. Fighting off a Rocket surge in the third quarter, the Eagles rounded out to a score of 54-49.

Somerset hoopsters also attended the Boswell Jaycees Christmas Tournament. Other county participants included North Star, Shade and Meyersdale. In the opening game, Somerset fell to Shade by a score of 69-71. In the consolation game, Somerset again lost, with North Star taking the victory, 61-66.

Leading scorer for the season was Craig Barron, with 242 points.

Junior Varsity posted a strong 15-7 record, under the leadership of Coach Herbert Kaufman.

William Carr led the Eagle grapplers to an outstanding season this year with a 12-2 record. Performances from Tom Baer, Mark Hemminger and Barry Hemminger boosted the team standing.

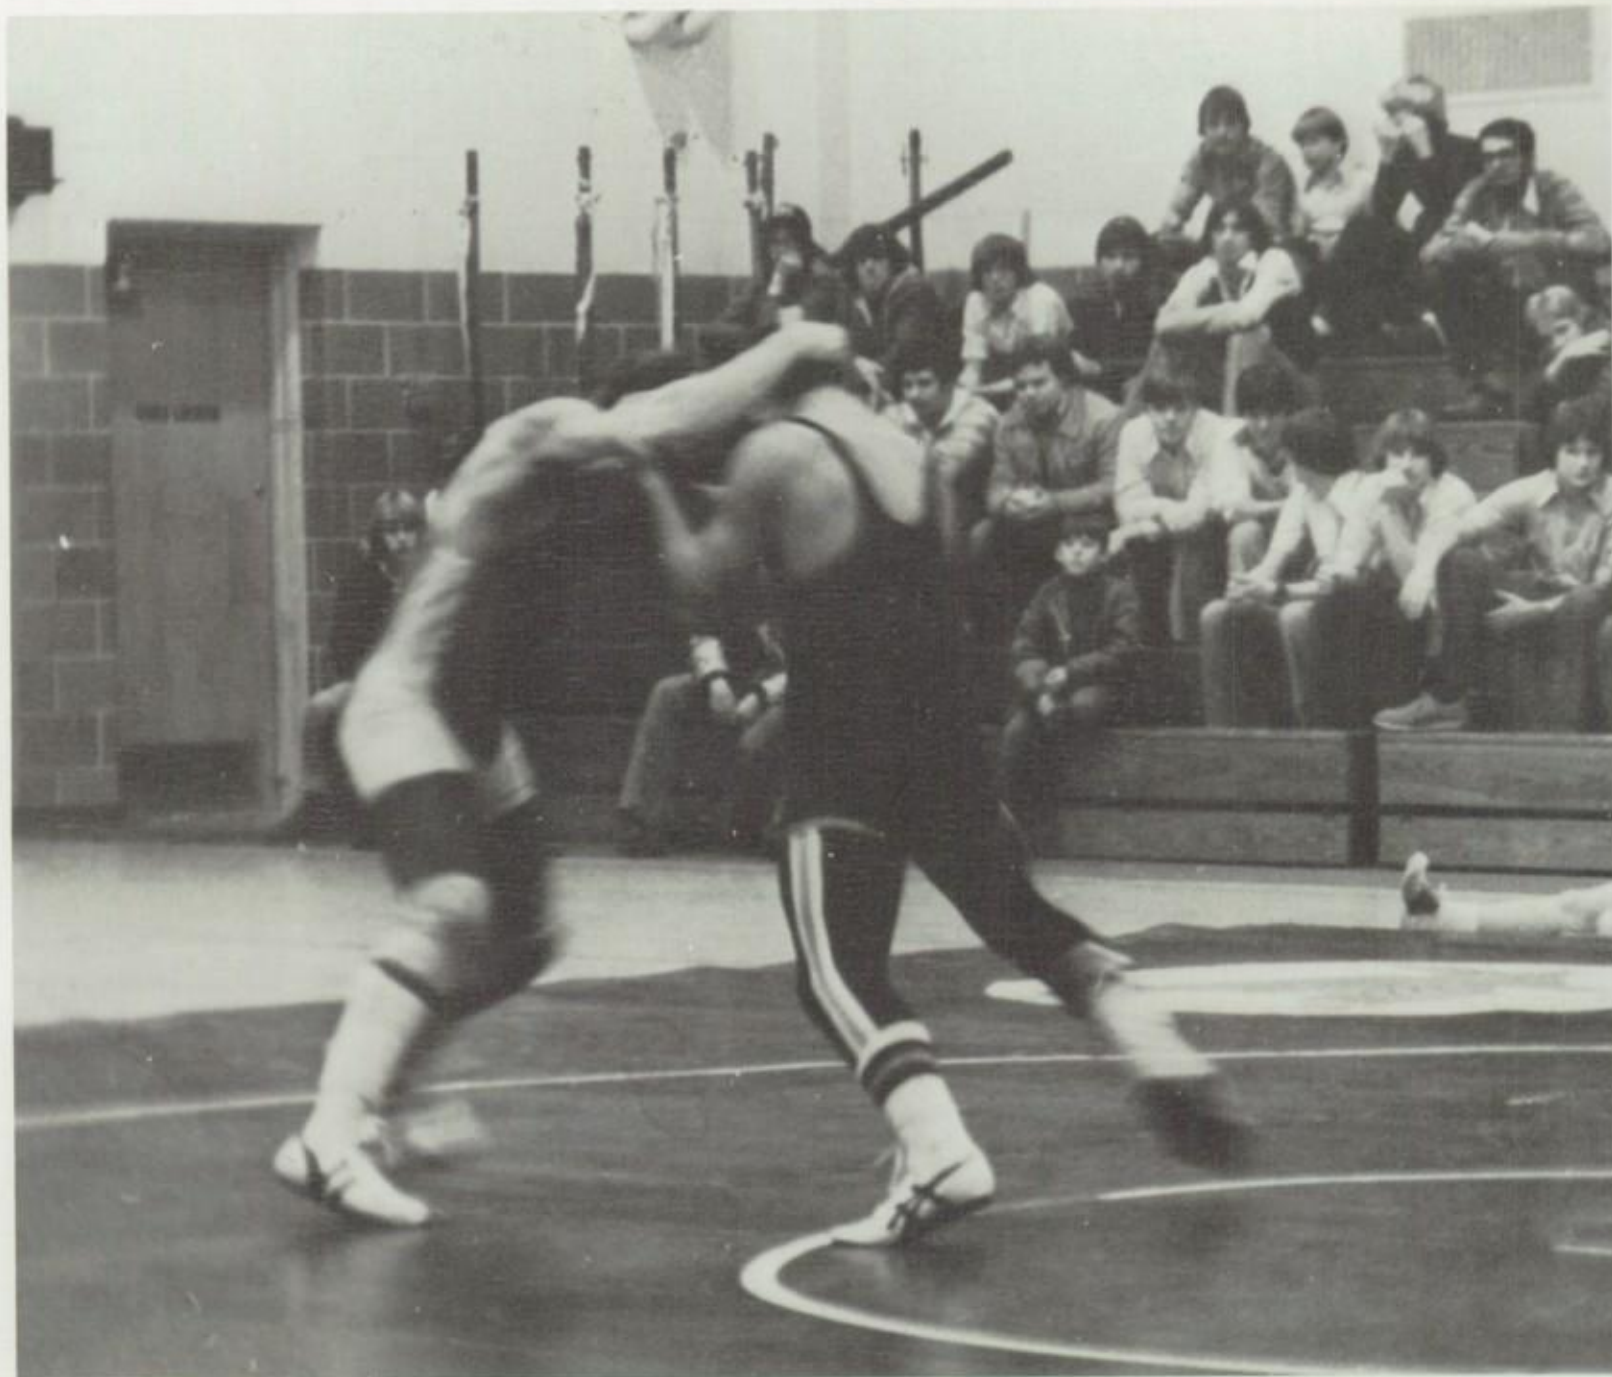

In a quadrangular meet with Altoona, Latrobe and Everett, Somerset placed second, losing only to Latrobe. The grapplers defeated Altoona and over-powered Everett.

Placing third in the Roof Garden Christmas Tournament, Somerset received seven first, second, or third places. Mark Hemminger and Brad Berkebile grabbed first place honors, Charlie Foust clinched second place, while Roger Baer, Scott Darr and Bob Haupt won third place.

Following the lead of the varsity, the junior varsity also posted a winning record under the guidance of Raymond Shaulis.

Volleyball team reaches district finals

Continuing in success, the girls volleyball team finished their season with an 11-1 record, their only loss coming at the hands of Rockwood in the fifth game. This was the first loss for the varsity team in three years of competition. But the Eagles, coached by Nancy Hay, bounced right back, defeating Rockwood in the seventh game of the season and also going on to capture the county title.

The girls then traveled to North Star to play the Everett Warriors for the District V championship, where they lost in a three game match, 8-15, 15-9, 0-15.

Senior Lori Weimer and Junior Joan Meyer were named to the All-County First Team. Seniors Lisa Clay and Gretchen Mayor received Second All-County Team honors, while Junior Lois Ludy received All-County Honorable Mention.

Eagle junior varsity finished with an 8-4 record under the guidance of Coach Tracy Gnagy.

Girls win county, intercounty titles;

With the outstanding pitching of Lori Qualters and the powerful hitting of Lee Ann Walker, Somerset's softball team won the county championship for the second consecutive year. Qualters, who ended with a pitching record of 10-1, recorded 59 strikeouts throughout the season.

Somerset defeated Meyersdale 8-5 to take the county championship. They then defeated Central Cambria 10-1 to become the Inter-County Division II champions. Outstanding pitching by Qualters and overall team hitting paced the Eagles to their victories. Somerset's only loss of the season went to Chestnut Ridge in District V competition.

Rounding out the starting line-up in the infield were Lori Qualters, Rhonda Nair, Jill Costea, Joan Meyer, Lori Weimer and Jodie Dunmeyer. The outfield consisted of Lee Ann Walker, Lisa Clay and Lois Ludy. Lori Qualters was named Most Valuable Player for her performances in pitching. Somerset finished its season with a 13-1 record, with nine lettermen returning for next year's team.

Undefeated For Fourth Consecutive Year

Coached by Mr. David Maize, the Somerset track team overpowered and out-distanced every opponent in their regular season, bringing home numerous records. The cindermen went 14-0 during the season, pushing their consecutive win total to 51, which dates back to 1974.

Three new school records made the books during the season. Bryan Walker ran 50.27 seconds in the 440-yard dash, breaking the old record of 52.0. John McNaul trimmed the old 880-yard record of 2:03.4 by posting a 2:02.8. In the polevaulting event, Steve Hetrick reached his peak at 13'4", inching over the recent record of 13'3".

At District VI competition, three Eagles qualified for the state meet at Shippensburg State College. They were Bryan Walker, Steve Hetrick and Steve Morocco.

Setting marks of unprecedented wins, Somerset took the Mountain Conference Relays for the fourth consecutive year. The Eagles also captured titles in the Somerset County Meet and the Mountain Conference League Championship Meet.

Outstretching his Westmont opponent, Bryan Walker flies over the finish line.

With a steady pace, John McNaul finishes ahead of his opponent in the 880-yard run.

In District V competition, they overpowered Bedford in a first-round game, 3-0. Advancing to the District V finals, they breezed by Central Fulton 8-0 to take the title.

Somerset's team represented us well at the state playoffs, held every year at Shippensburg State College. They challenged St. Clair, a tough contender, but finally lost by one run in extra-inning play.

Outstanding pitching by Bob Hetrick paced the Eagle team. He compiled a 6-0 record, with two shut-outs in the playoffs. He also was named Most Valuable Player in Somerset County. All-County team members included Joe Pacifico, Scott Fisher, Jeff Mosholder and Wade Acker.

For the second consecutive season Joseph Maslak was named Somerset County Coach of the Year.

Cheerleaders Compete In Johnstown With

Long practices, hard work and dedication is what it took for the 1978-79 varsity cheerleading squad to compete in the Johnstown War Memorial cheerleading contest. But due to technical difficulties at the arena the contest was held to first round competition, and the girls did not place as one of the top three squads.

With new advisor Mrs. Peggy Bittner, the nine-member varsity squad and seven member JV squad backed the many athletic teams through all their events. A big highlight for both squads was attending cheerleaders' day at Pitt University, where they learned many new routines.

The varsity squad this year was headed by co-captains Angie Svonavec and Jane Barron, while the JV squad was led by Wendy Walker.

Newly Established Store A Precedent

Under the supervision of Mr. Rhodes, the Student Council established the precedent of a council store at the senior high. Merchandise for sale included pencils, notebooks, booster tags and T-shirts imprinted with the Somerset Eagle insignia.

Representing our school in the Intermediate Unit Eight Forum were Peggy Matthews, Lisa Rush, and Mark Hemminger. Peggy also served as Vice President. The IU Student Council was a group comprised of schools from Somerset, Cambria and Bedford Counties. Meetings, held at the Johnstown Vo-Tech school, worked on such projects as student rights and responsibilities, along with laws concerning drugs and alcohol.

Another first for the Somerset council was participation in the 1979 Leadership Conference, which included schools from all over the county.

The purpose of this meeting was to initiate effective student leadership in the schools and to improve communications.

Serving as officers for the year were President Lisa Rush, Vice President Diane Knepper, Secretary Karen Sheeler and Treasurer Theresa Pingatore.

NHS Honors Academically Skilled Students

An April National Honor Society induction ceremony and reception entertained members and their parents.

New members were required to maintain scholastic requirements and also display evidence of service, leadership and character in the school and community.

Advisors Mrs. Marjorie Ankney and Mr. Richard Colliver assisted President Jeff Harrity, Vice-President Pam Tokar, Secretary Sandy Sandusky and Treasurer Steve Stoltz in spearheading society projects.

Among the various activities NHS sponsored during the year was their annual Christmas tea, held on December 21 for the faculty and members of the 1978 graduating class who were attending a school of higher education. Other concerns included the revising of the club constitution and the consideration of changing the grade point requirements for membership. The NHS also maintained its principal responsibility throughout the year by tutoring students who required help with school assignments.

Creative Journalism Members Inducted

Quill and Scroll member Pam Urbain receives her pin during induction ceremonies from advisor Mr. Jay Christner.

Members invited into the Quill and Scroll international honorary society maintained traditional requirements by ranking in the top third of their class. Junior and Senior newspaper students included those who had published fifty or more inches of written work in the various media of the community. Yearbook members qualified through the recommendation of their editors and advisor on the basis of their contributions to the creation of the Eaglet during their senior year.

Mrs. Phyllis Cindric and Mr. Jay Christner were advisors for the club during the year. Working with them were President Tim Eutin, Vice-President Julie O'Hara, Secretary Ramona Meyers and Treasurer Pam Urbain.

Induction ceremonies took place on March 12 in the school auditorium, after which a reception in the cafeteria honored new members and their parents.

Urbain Selected Most Valuable Staffer

Published monthly by newspaper journalism students was the "Eagle's Echo." The responsibility of overseeing production went to Carla Wojnaroski, who served as editor-in-chief. Advisor Mr. Jay Christner lent his guidance and advice throughout the year.

Field trips provided new educational experiences for the journalism classes. First year students observed newspaper publication at the Somerset Daily American, then later that day toured Radio Station WVSC. Both journalism I and II students participated in a trip to Pittsburgh, where they visited WTAE-TV, WDVE Radio, and the Pittsburgh Press.

Several staffers attended the Central Western Scholastic Press Association Conference at UPJ in order to discuss common problems and acquire new techniques in journalism. Keeping its staff well trained and up-to-date has earned the "Eagle's Echo" top awards from Quill and Scroll and the Pennsylvania School Press Association.

At Yearbook Seminar Won by '79 Eaglet

Staff editors gather around the table to finish plans for the first deadline.

Copy, headlines, picture orders and quad-packs were important aspects of the production of the 1979 yearbook.

Putting the Eaglet together began in Journalism I classes, where students learned basic journalistic writing, cropping and designing skills during their junior year.

Teresa Klink and Lucy Walker, elected by their class, served as editors for the 1979 book. After the choosing of staff editors and the assigning of staff positions, publication of the Eaglet was ready to begin.

Lucy and Teresa attended a yearbook seminar at Seven Springs on August 6-9. At the annual awards dinner which concluded the seminar first place honors for layout and design went to their plans for the 1979 Eaglet.

Staffers under the direction of Mrs. Phyllis Cindric worked hard to change and improve the yearbook, hoping to make this year's Eaglet a memorable one.

"We need one more pica here," says Mrs. Cindric to Lucy Walker and Teresa Klink.

Staffers Obtain Patrons, Sell Yearbooks

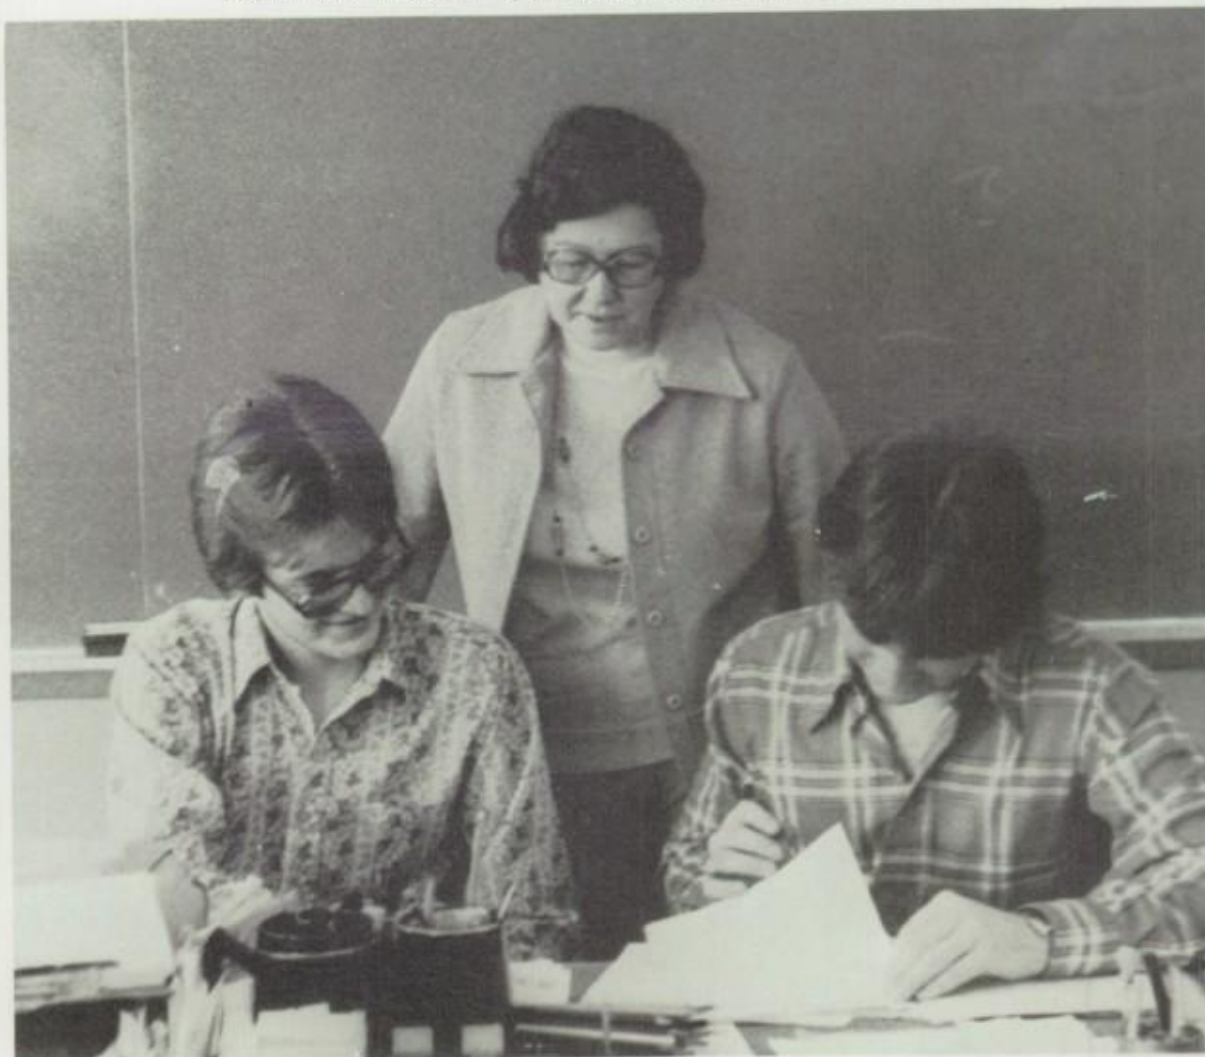

Eaglet Business Staff, in charge of running yearbook and magazine sales, worked under the direction of Mrs. Lilia Miller. Team captains assigned to each homeroom took orders for yearbooks and collected magazine subscriptions.

Each day of the magazine sales, staff members calculated the amount of that day's sales, plus announcing the high homeroom and high salesman for the day. They also held a cash drawing each day for all seniors who had already reached their quota of $79.00. Guests of honor at the turkey dinner this year were high sales homeroom 104.

Aside from magazine responsibilities staff members were also in charge of obtaining patrons for the yearbook.

Leading the staff this year were Manager Jeff Hay, Co-Managers Bob Sheeler and Kevin Miller, Secretary Cathy Haer, and Assistant Secretary Jodie Dunmeyer.

YEA Provides Christmas Delivery Service

YEA carried out a full calendar of activities this year. At their bi-weekly meetings members made plans for their annual college visitation day, which took place in the spring.

Christmas projects included caroling with members of the French Club at the Somerset state and community hospitals. YEA mailbox and package delivery provided students and faculty a way to save postage and enjoy efficient service.

April was a hectic month with cadet teaching; a weekend field trip to Williamsburg, Virginia, and Washington, D.C.; and an all-day teachers tea, where the YEA presented faculty members with flowers and refreshments.

Officers Cathy Haer, Kelly Brennen, Marcella Egner and Chris Sechler discuss the agenda for a bi-weekly meeting.

Secretary Michele Hixson turns in minutes of the previous meeting.

Miss Ruth Barkley and the Tri-Hi-Y began their year with the election of President Carla Tokar, Secretary Michele Hixson, Treasurer Jayne Domino and Chaplain Debbie Kammerer.

In November club members played host to a speaker from the Mantrap Unisex Hair Stylists. She demonstrated methods of applying makeup and gave tips on hair care. Various other guests were scheduled throughout the year.

In a generous Christmas gesture the girls made a visit to the Siemon Nursing Home, singing carols and making friends with the elderly patients. This was in keeping with the club's purpose, to give community service.

Cooperating with the Heart Fund, the Tri-Hi-Y sold lollipops. At the end of a successful venture, members were relieved to see the last few cases disappear.

As spring came, Tri-Hi-Y escaped a day of school to travel to Johnstown. There they visited the Flower Barn, a fabric shop and other points of interest, including the Johnstown Flood Museum, where they found facets of local history.

Gummy Bears Raise German Club Funds

October festival days highlighted the year for German Club on their visit to Springs, Pa., where everyone had a chance to taste maple syrup.

Members held an exciting sled riding party in January as well as an all-day picnic in the spring.

Fund raising projects once again included selling German "gummy bears." This proved to be a successful venture, since German Club salesmen had built up a following of customers over the years.

Officers included President Fred Shaffer, Vice-President Tom Shawley and Secretary-Treasurer Gina Lowry.

An active club this year, the French Club took on a number of projects. Fund-raisers included selling calendars, notebooks and hoagies. Other activities included a trip to Washington, D.C. and Williamsburg, Virginia in April.

Officers this year were President Beverly Essink, Vice-President Sandy Friedline, Secretary Veil James and Treasurer Judy Sujansky.

Members of the club enjoyed a trip to Europe in June, 1978. They toured London, England; Paris, France; Luzerne, Switzerland; and Milan, Florence, and Rome, Italy. The group also took their annual weekend trip to Stratford, Canada, in October, where they attended Macbeth and Candide.

Members prepared the annual French Club dinner on January 17, 1979. They served escargots, soupe à l'oignon, boeuf bourguignon, and other French treats.

Under the supervision of Mrs. Sherren the club had an exciting year.

Paella Party, Slave Day Spanish Fetes

With Mrs. Chapman as its advisor, the Spanish Club met the last Friday of every month in their regularly scheduled class. Elected officers were President Barbara Egolf, Vice-President Patty Trent, Secretary Teresa Klink and Treasurer Scott Shaulis.

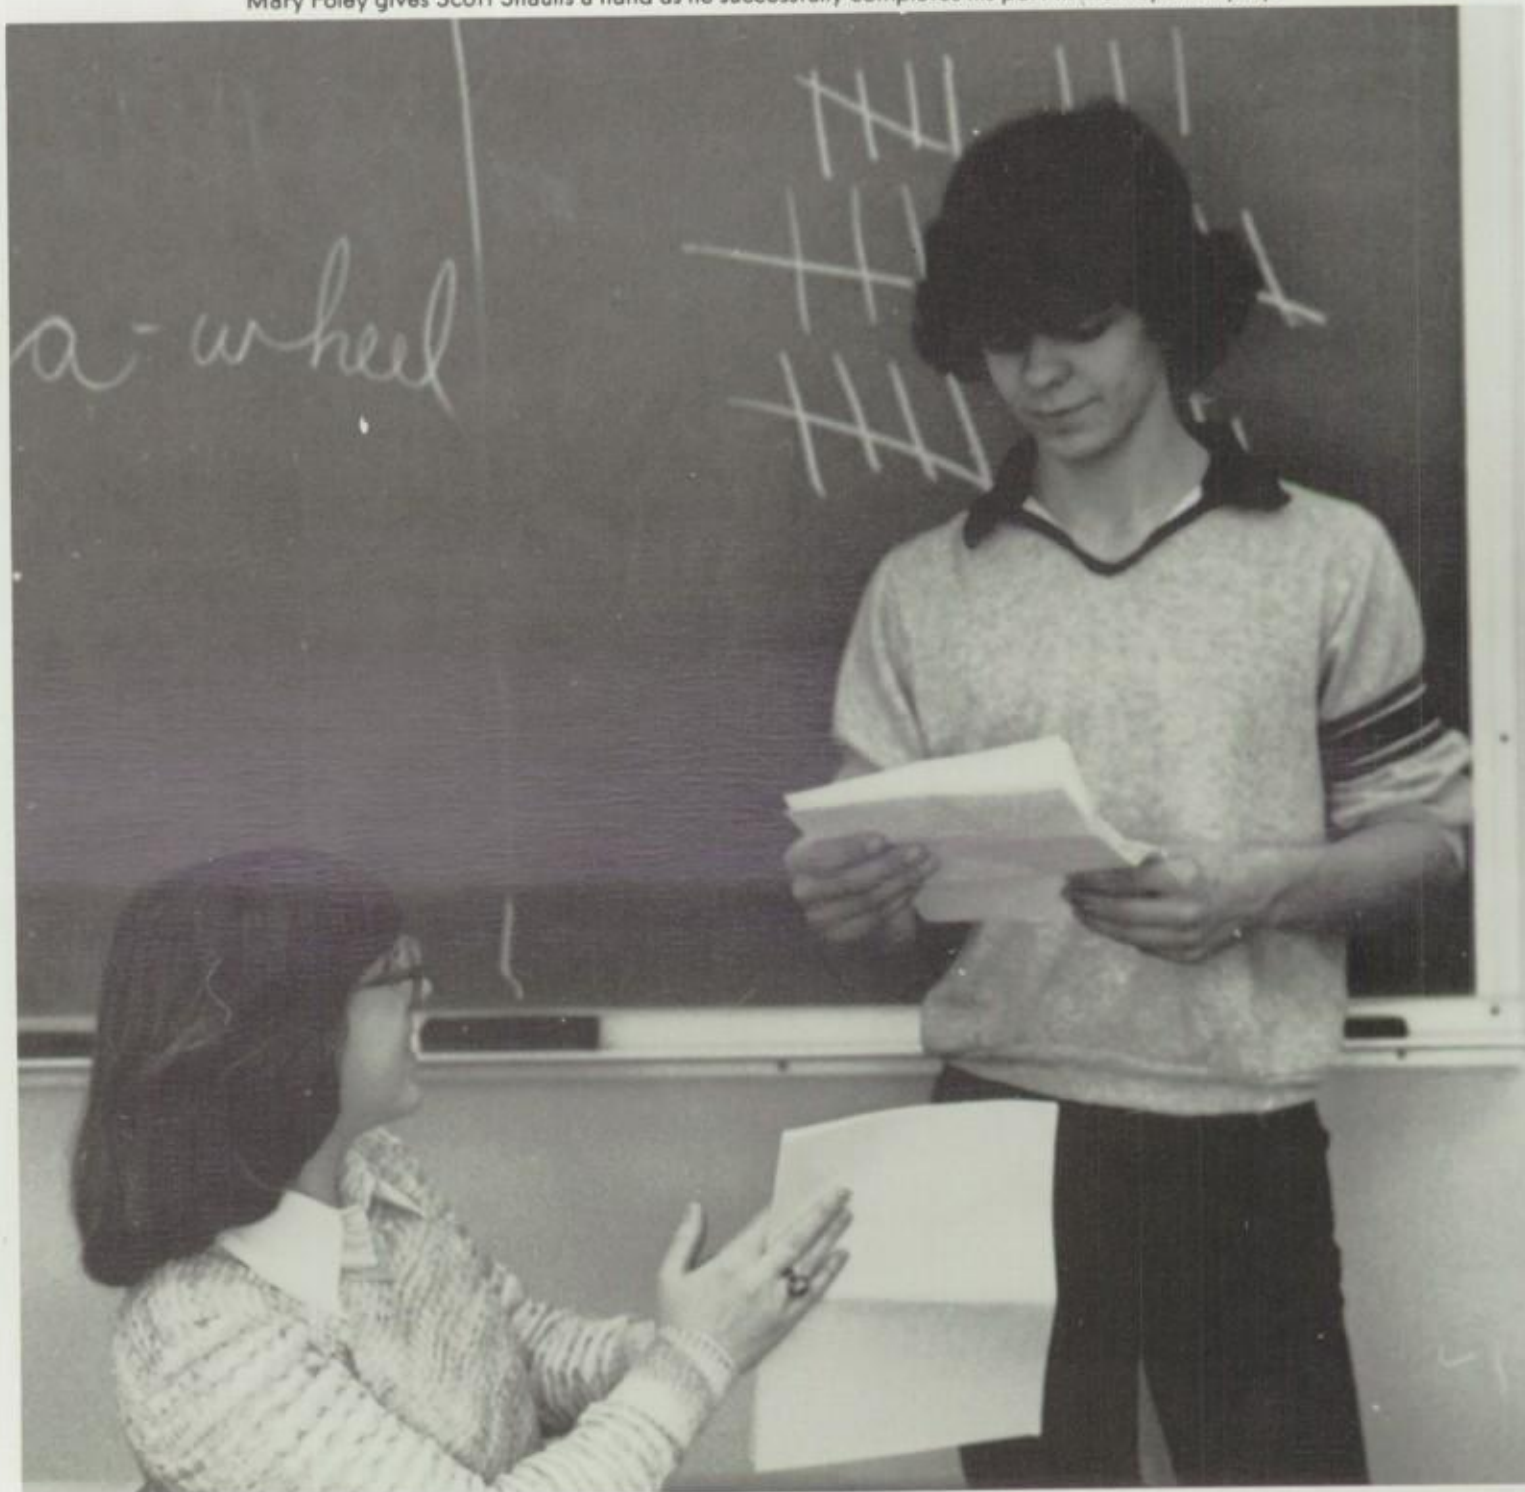

As money-making projects club members sold tickets to Dave's Car Wash and took turns working at the concession stand during midget league football games.

The club held their annual Paella Party, a Spanish dinner featuring paella (spanish rice), seafood and chicken. In the spring another highlight was the New World's Day party, an annual event where freshmen acted as slaves to upper-classmen, carrying out all their wishes.

Mike Knecht, Melody Hawkins and Brad Wong make arrangements to raise money for Spanish Club by selling passes to Dave's Car Wash.

Lori Kriesel informs Kathy Mills that it is her duty to see that the pencil and pen machines are filled.

Library Club members aided Librarian Mrs. Halverson in her many duties. Members prepared book reports for each meeting. They presented a program on the third Friday of each month. This year's officers were President Barb Egolf, Vice-President Shari Ebie, Secretary Nancy Welsh and Treasurer Cathy Haer.

Aside from their meetings members worked at least one period a week in the library. They checked books in and out and decorated the bulletin board and windows each month. They also kept the pen and pencil machines in the back of the library filled, from which they received some of their funds.

The club sponsored several after-football game dances to raise money for their April trip to Washington, D.C. and Williamsburg, Virginia.

Six FFA Men Named Keystone Farmers

OFFICERS: Tom Wiencek, Barry Hemminger, Gerald Berkebile, Harold Howard, Shawn Fitzgerald, Bruce Suter, Brian Custer

FFA, under the direction of Mr. Arnold Wilson, totaled thirty-nine members this year, with seven serving as officers. The seven officers attended a County-Leadership Training Conference on October 26, 1978. There they gained information on how to run their meetings with order and maintain their officers. Among various projects that the group carried out were sales of seeds and Christmas trees. A successful citrus fruit sale tallied 410 boxes distributed.

Of six applicants for the 1979 Keystone Farmer Degree, all were accepted. Gerald Berkebile, Brian Custer, Barry Hemminger, Larry Hemminger, Harold Howard and Thomas Wiencek accepted their awards on January 10 at the Pennsylvania State Farm Show in Harrisburg.

On April 19 officers attended a Chapter of Parliamentary Procedure contest held at the Calvary United Methodist Church.

Camera Club, under the direction of Mr. Dale Phillippi, highlighted the club's year by adding a new enlarger to the dark room. All members kept busy helping the yearbook and newspaper meet their deadlines. Developing, mixing chemicals and making prints were included in duties of members as they kept the darkroom in running order.

The object of the club was to teach members the basic rules of photography. Students learned to use and maintain camera equipment while developing simple photography practices.

Officers of the year were President Mike Knecht, Vice-President Kirk Schrock, Secretary Buster Pile and Treasurer John Miller.

A soft-hearted Mr. Phillippi, unable to resist the pleading faces of six members, writes passes to the darkroom.

Artists Repaint Kiwanis Nativity Scene

National Education Week in November provided Art Club members with a chance to exhibit pieces of work to people of the community in local store windows and to parents during open house at the senior high.

Money-making activities included an after-football game dance. Other activities included Christmas paintings on the windows of McDonald's restaurant and the repainting of the figures for the Kiwanis Club nativity display. Members also painted teachers podiums and crafted sport representations to hang permanently in the gym.

The club hosted the third annual Somerset County Student Art Show, held at the Dressler Center for the Arts during March. From there, winning entries went on display at the Somerset Trust Bank.

Working along with advisor Mrs. Virginia Ankney were President Walter Piatt, Vice-President Kelly Crissey, Secretary Hollie Walker and Treasurer Wayne Stevanus.

Student Voice Heard In Advisory Board

Joan Meyer discusses with Dennis Shaulis and Advisor Mr. Jay Christner possibilities for the wording of the advisory board's constitution.

Representatives from each curriculum of the Somerset senior high school composed the Student Advisory Board. Advisor Mr. Jay Christner and Dennis Shaulis aided in continuing the campaign against smoking on and around school property. Other activities included writing the board's permanent constitution, sponsoring after-game dances and planning to secure an activities period in the senior high schedule.

The board held frequent meetings with school administration members during the year to discuss and attempt to solve school problems. In their second year, they worked hard to have each facet of the school represented and their voices heard. Board members included Dennis Shaulis, Chairman; Tim Eutin, Vice-Chairman, College Prep; Joan Meyer, Secretary, Sports; Lexi Friedline, Vo-Tech; Harry Howard, Vo-Ag; Mary Roach, Fine Arts; Natalie Egner, Home and Family Studies; Steve Hetrick, Industrial Arts; Bob Stern, General; and Chris Sechler, Business.

Varsity letter jackets were rewards to club members who achieved varsity status in the senior high school. Under the guidance of Mr. Robert Brougher, the club volunteered time at the Junior Hospital Auxiliary haunted house during October and at interscholastic games selling candy and distributing programs. The club also sold candy in school and the community.

A new constitution for the club was one of the changes S club established during the year. The club also succeeded in lifting school spirit by contributing money they had earned to help cheerleaders meet expenses for supplies for posters and other materials that they needed. The club also contributed money toward the traveling costs of wrestlers to the district matches.

Activities for the S Club were regulated by President Wade Acker, Vice President Chris Mapes, Secretary Linda Stahl and Treasurer John McNaul.

Boys And Girls Ensembles Are

Under the direction of Mr. Jack Dice, the Somerset Area Senior High Chorus combined their vocal talents at special concerts at Christmas and in May. Members met every Tuesday and Thursday afternoon to prepare themselves for these performances.

Special highlights of the concerts included the talents of the boys and girls ensembles. Twelve select members of the chorus participated in each of these ensembles. The boys performed "Singing Noel" during the Christmas concert, while the girls performed their own arrangement of "Don't Let Go Of Christmas."

Accompanist for the year was Shari Baker, with assistance from Jill Johnson and Carla Wojnaroski.

Talented members had the opportunity to pursue their vocal interests in County, District, and Regional Chorus. County Chorus took place at Meyersdale this year with several members from Somerset attending.

Touring Choir Performs In Area Churches

Touring Choir consisted of a special dedicated section of the chorus. These members practiced long hours to prepare themselves for performances on the second Sunday of every month at various local churches. Community congregations thoroughly appreciated the time and effort put into this sacred music program.

Special presentations by the choir members included singing at the Republican Committee convention in Berlin, the Lion's Club variety show in April, the Farm Women's Association at Oakhurst, and a Rotary Club meeting in May.

Touring choir functioned under the direction of Mr. John Dice.

Jazz Band Masters Syncopated Rhythms

Mr. McDowell stops jazz band rehearsal when a disappointing sound emerges from the trumpet section.

Low brass members practice a tricky section in their music.

Under the direction of Mr. Herbert McDowell, jazz band opened new channels to many band members. This extra activity gave students the opportunity to play a type of music they might not normally perform in a high school band. Jazz rock, gospel and blues were various types of music included. Jazz band also gave members a chance to use their creativity in ad libbing solos and melodic lines.

Trumpets, trombones, tubas, saxophones, basses and piano were all a part of the band. The group is modeled after the classic big bands, performing music such as Glenn Miller and Duke Ellington selections. Some more contemporary tunes included groups such as Blood, Sweat and Tears and Chicago.

District Orchestra Is Highlight Of Year

District VI Orchestra Festival of the Pennsylvania Music Education Association (P.M.E.A.) highlighted the musical year for many talented members of orchestra. They attended this festival on Feb. 15-17 at the Johnstown Area Vo-Tech School. Fourteen musicians represented our school in Johnstown, where they lived for three days with host families.

The brass ensemble of the orchestra performed a mini-Christmas concert at the Dressler Center for the Arts during their holiday activities. Other concerts included a Pops concert with the jazz band and their annual concert in the spring.

Director of the orchestra was Mr. Herbert McDowell, while officers included President Julie O'Hara, Vice-President Kirk Schrock and Secretary-Treasurer Margy Deaner.

Wind Ensemble Proves An Addition

Somerset band was among fifteen groups invited to attend the Pitt Band Field Day, held at Pitt stadium during the Pitt-North Carolina football game. At half time the bands joined to form a giant P to honor the Pittsburgh Panthers. This performance was covered on regional television.

Other band activities included participation in the Fall Fantasy Parade at Kenywood Park, the Grand Feature Parade at the County Fair, and a parade in Windber in which they took first place.

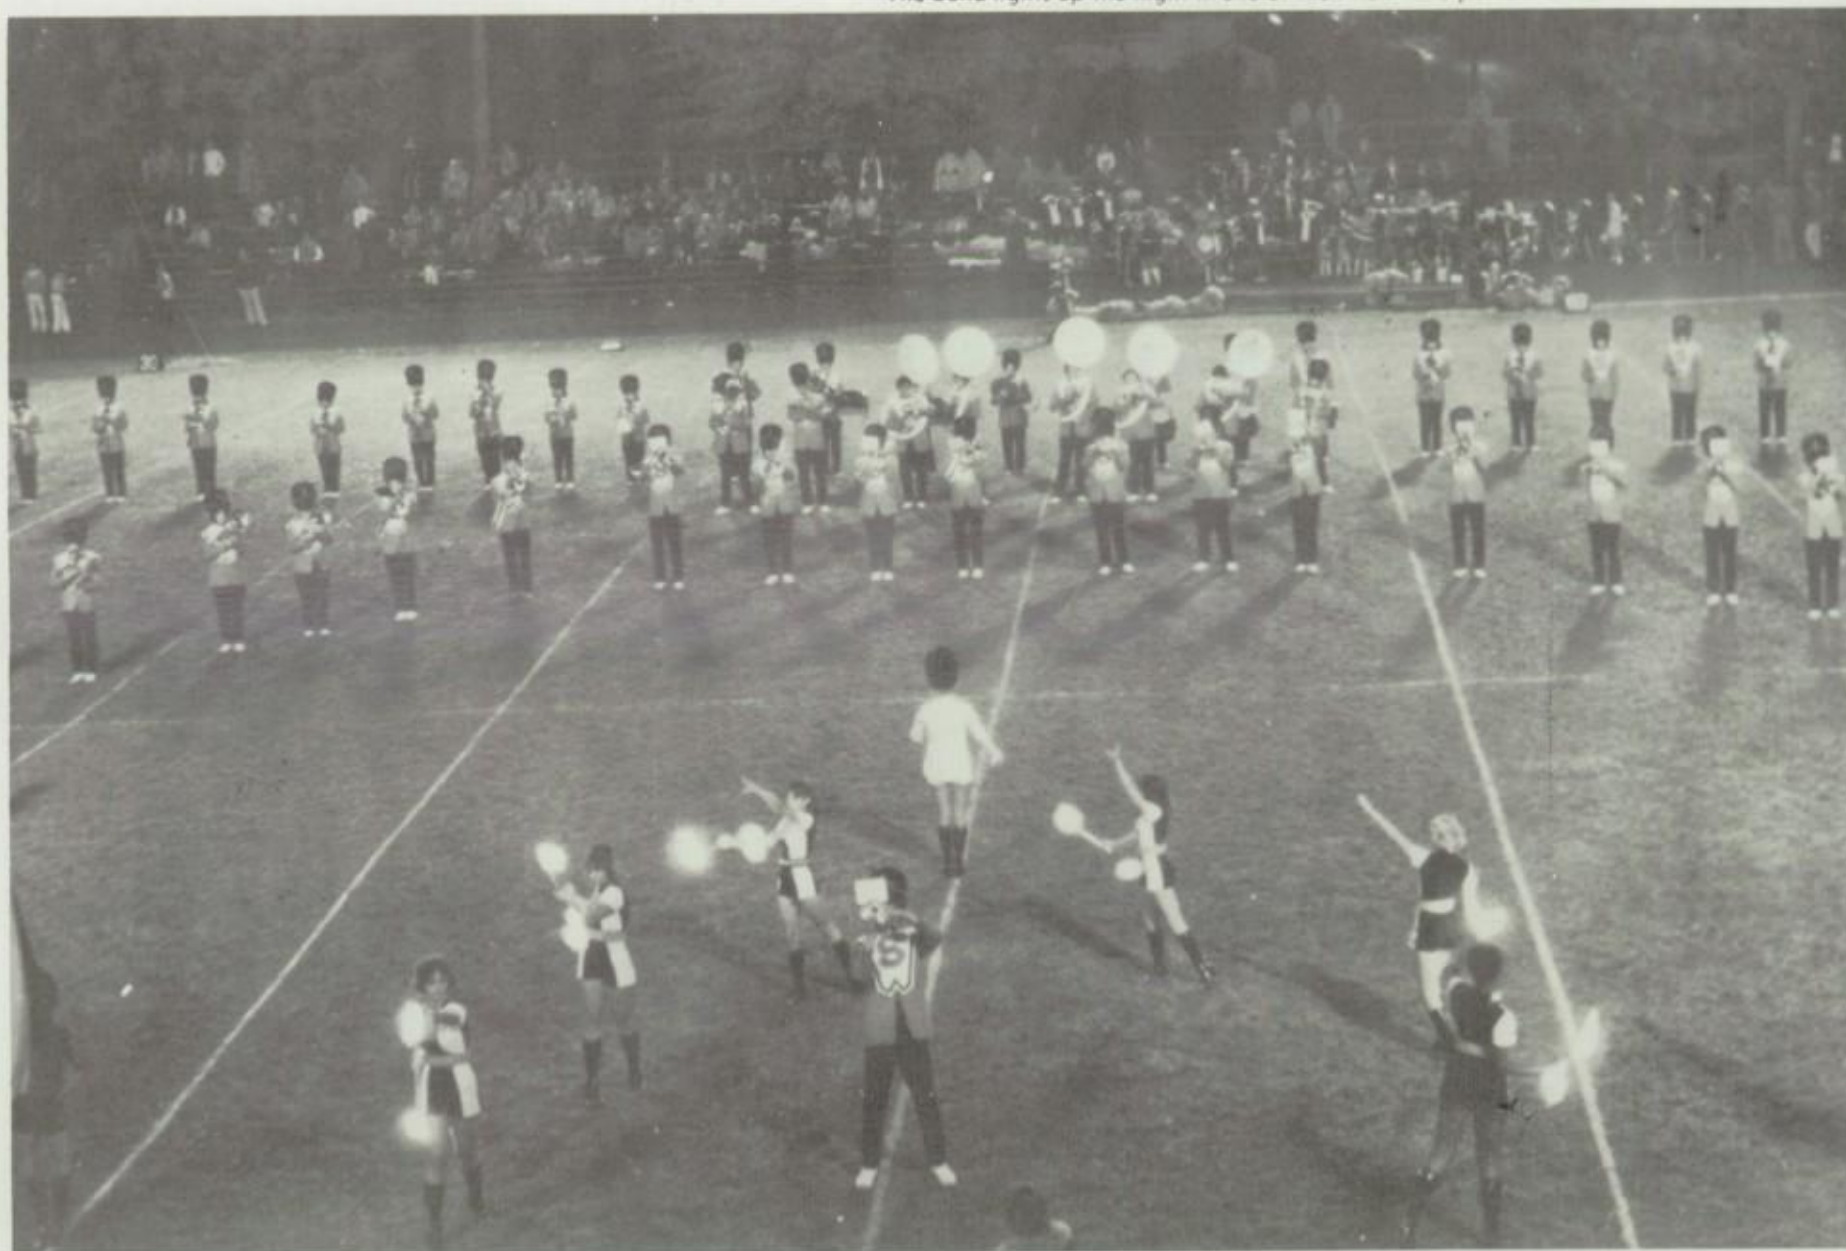

Several opportunities opened up to musicians to expand their talents, including District and Regional Band, Pep Band, and the IUP Honors Band, in which this year five Somerset band members earned chairs. They were Cindy Meyers, first chair flute; Margie Deaner, third chair French horn; Fred Shaffer, tuba; Pam Walker, French horn; and Tom Berkebile, trumpet.

Along with District and Regional Band, members also participated in County Band, which our school hosted this year.

Mr. McDowell shows Cindy Meyers a schedule of practices for the IUP Honors Band, after telling her she has seated first.

Color Guard Brightens Halftime Shows

The 78-79 competition colorguard, headed by Sandy Sandusky, highlighted football games both at home and away with their flag routines to various shows such as Chicago, Star Wars and the special Homecoming show to honor the alumni.

During a busy summer schedule they participated in firemen's parades in Somerset, Meyersdale and Windber.

For a new look this year, the colorguard expanded from twelve to fifteen members and arranged their lineup by assigning twelve to the back line, keeping only three in the front rank.

Competition was open to everyone from ninth thru twelfth grade. Three practices prepared candidates for try-outs in marching and twirling of flags. The fifteen finalists from a field of twenty-five earned their positions.

Majorettes Spotlight Featured Twirler

Pam Pickett, Pam Williams, Yvonne May, Brenda Collins, Laurie Stayrook, Heidi Wolk

Majorettes, sporting new uniforms, performed a variety of football halftime shows this year, with Captain Laurie Stayrook coordinating the programs. Homecoming ceremonies included fire baton routines.

In a new look majorettes centered around Feature Twirler Wanda Friedline, who highlighted football halftime shows by performing to the music of "Close Encounters of the Third Kind."

Practices during the summer enabled the majorettes to participate in various firemen's parades at Somerset, Meyersdale and Windber, also to attend and participate in the Pitt-North Carolina show with many other bands from Western Pennsylvania.

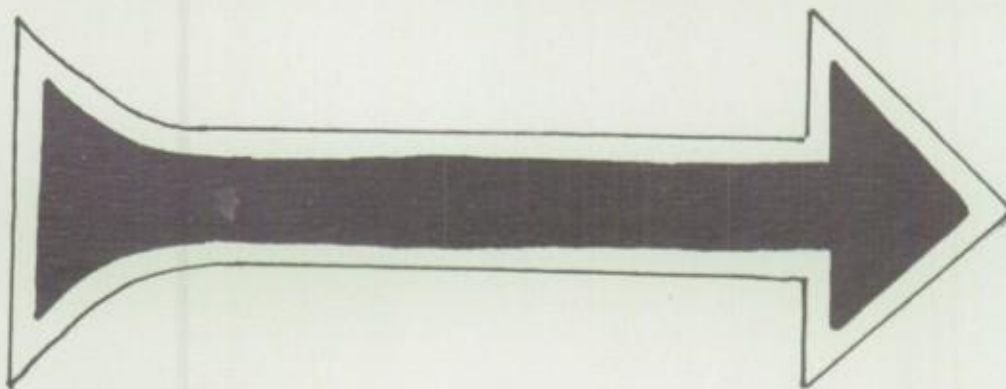

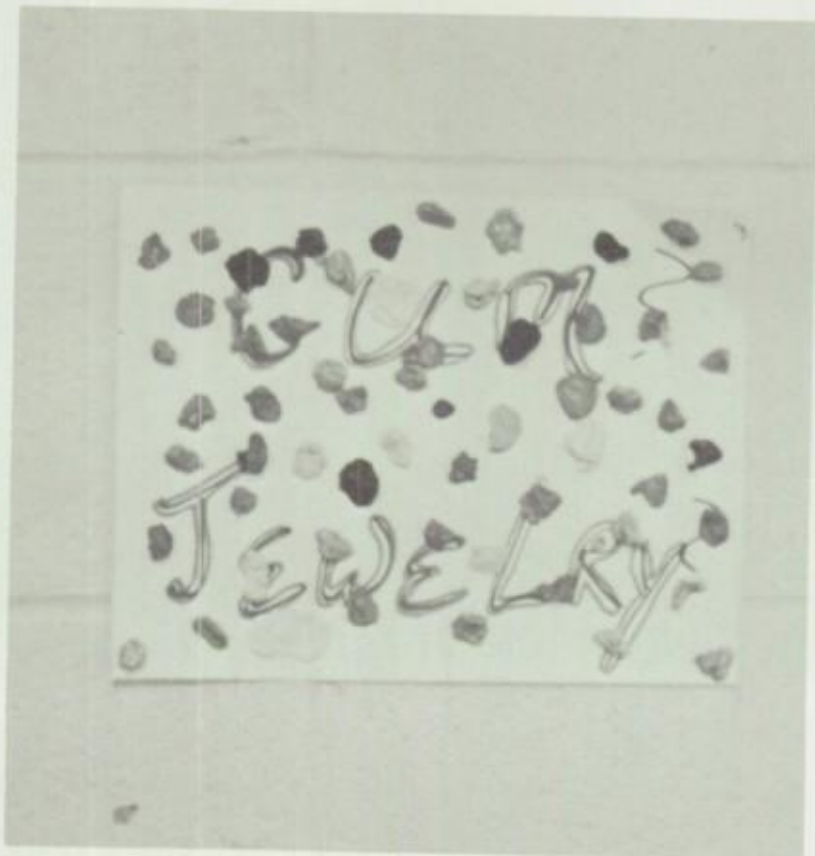

The squad consisted of six members plus the feature twirler.

Marianne Keim Crowned Queen

"Should I or shouldn't I?" thinks Eddie Miller after Marianne asks him to be her escort.

At Special Homecoming Ceremonies

Queen Marianne enters the gates for the parade around the field during the homecoming performance.

Marianne touches up her hair before the traditional Homecoming dance.

Student Council selected ten homecoming representatives who were then voted on by the senior class. Mary Pacifico, Cathy Haer, Linda Stahl, Marianne Keim and Jean Meyer received the highest votes, thus obtaining the honor of performing during the homecoming show.

Halftime activities included a parade around the football field, featuring each of the girls and their escorts. The band added an extra touch to the ceremony, performing a special show to honor the alumni of the past few years.

Mr. Kuhlman concluded the ceremony as he crowned Marianne Keim 1979 Homecoming Queen. Following the coronation, student council members Lucy Walker and Pam Urbain presented flowers to each of the members of the court.

Somerset gridders brought the evening to a perfect close with a win over Richland 22 to 0.

Marianne and her escort, Eddie Miller, pause for a picture minutes before the half-time ceremonies.

Somerset's Maple Princess Crown

Selected by the senior class from a field of thirty-two, eight contestants participated in the annual Maple Princess Contest. Mr. Harold Showman from Radio Station WVSC hosted the ceremonies held on November 6.

Advisors Mrs. Halverson and Miss Brant guided the girls through a program consisting of individual interviews with the judges, a promenade before the audience, a talent presentation and a question and answer period with Mr. Showman.

Announcing Linda Stahl as the winner climaxed the evening. Harry Howard, representing the class of '79 as Mr. Senior, congratulated her with roses and a kiss.

Linda took her disco talent routine to Seven Springs Resort on March 23, where she competed with girls from various county schools for the title of Queen Maple XXXII.

For her talent number, Judy Sujansky sings a medley of songs from "The Sound of Music" while accompanying herself on the piano.

Goes To An Honored Linda Stahl

Chosen by the Senior Class, this year's Maple Princess contestants are Becky McCall, Judy Sujansky, Maria Jacob, Jane Barron, Linda Stahl, Wanda Friedline, Terri Knupp and Marianne Keim.

Judy Sujansky, Marianne Keim and Wanda Friedline share Linda's excitement at the announcement of her name as Somerset's 1979 Maple Princess.

Talented Seniors prove

"WOW!" screams Fuzzy (John Wright) after Imogene (Shari Baker) accepts his proposal.

"Would you summon my motah cah, please," directs the Earl of Tewksbury (Morten Pedersen) to the doorman (Bob Sheeler) of the Chez Expensive.

Jeff (Mark Walker) flips baseball cards and discusses his future as a great explorer with Alice, his childhood playmate (Kathy Maurer).

"The Marriage Bit" is way to happiness

Madame Caubissons, Jeff's Parisian typist, and his model are all astounded by his portrait of Delilah; even his painting reflects his daydreams of Kristin.

Dreams are a part of life, and dreams are what made up this year's class play "The Marriage Bit." Set in the background of prom night at Brindsley College, the play cast consisted of members of the college graduating class.

Jeff wants to marry Kristin, but is a little apprehensive and asks his roommate Fuzzy for advice. Shocked by Jeff's plans of marriage, Fuzzy tries to talk him out of it. Visions of a future as a swinging bachelor, explorer, famous artist, composer and writer convince Jeff that he would be giving up an exciting life by marrying Kristin.

Imogene, Kristin's roommate, also getting wind of the marriage plans, assures Kristin of a fulfilling career without a man and total inhibition as a married woman.

Fuzzy and Imogene meet, congratulating each other on their success. Kristin and Jeff have not ruined their lives by getting married. Gradually Fuzzy realizes that he works well with Imogene and, wanting to make it last, he proposes to her, much to the consternation of their best friends.

Finally disregarding their advisors' counsel, Kristin and Jeff meet and decide for themselves that they are made for each other. The play ends on a happy note as Kristin gives a yes to Jeff's question, "Will you marry me?"

Kristin (Veil James) informs the minister (Steve Stoltz) of changes she'd like inserted into the wedding ceremony to make hers a truly liberated marriage.

Scholastic quiz team competes against

After hours of practicing, the Scholastic Quiz Team realized that the moment was finally here. On October 4 Captain Natalie Egner and team members Dan Carr, Dawn Hauger and Pam Tokar were prepared for a battle of wits against Meyersdale at the WJAC-TV studio in Johnstown.

Confident after a win in the preliminary round, the team moved ahead by a 70-50 score at halftime. But during the second half of the show, they weren't able to match the momentum of a tough Meyersdale team, finally losing 80-150.

Coaching the team were Mrs. Roberta Antram and Mrs. Martha Halverson. Members had earned places on the team as the result of a quiz assembly presented to the student body. Tim Eutin and Julie O'Hara, also selected at the assembly, served as team alternates.

Members of this year's Quiz team take a moment to pose for a picture with advisors Mrs. Roberta Antram and Mrs. Martha Halverson and alternates Julie O'Hara and Tim Eutin.

The Year Of '79 A Very Special One

Together we walk, ready to climb the mountain of success.

Holiday spirit comes to Somerset Senior High in the Student Council's Christmas tree.

Four Lively Exchange Students

Four exchange students brightened the hallways of Somerset this year. Isabel Robledo from Spain, Eric Tensuan from the Phillipines, Morten Pederson from Denmark and Alvaro Nisimblat from Colombia brought color and life to their host families.

These students were members of the senior class, following a curriculum similar to that of other seniors. Students were able to better understand foreign countries through their presence.

Isabel, who is staying with the Beans, enjoys reading, skating, and swimming. Morten enjoys photography, archeology, and helping on the farm of his host family, the Gnegys. Eric plays racquetball and jogs in his free time. He is staying with the Stumpfs. Alvaro, living with the Kimmels, likes to dance, and play soccer and ping-pong.

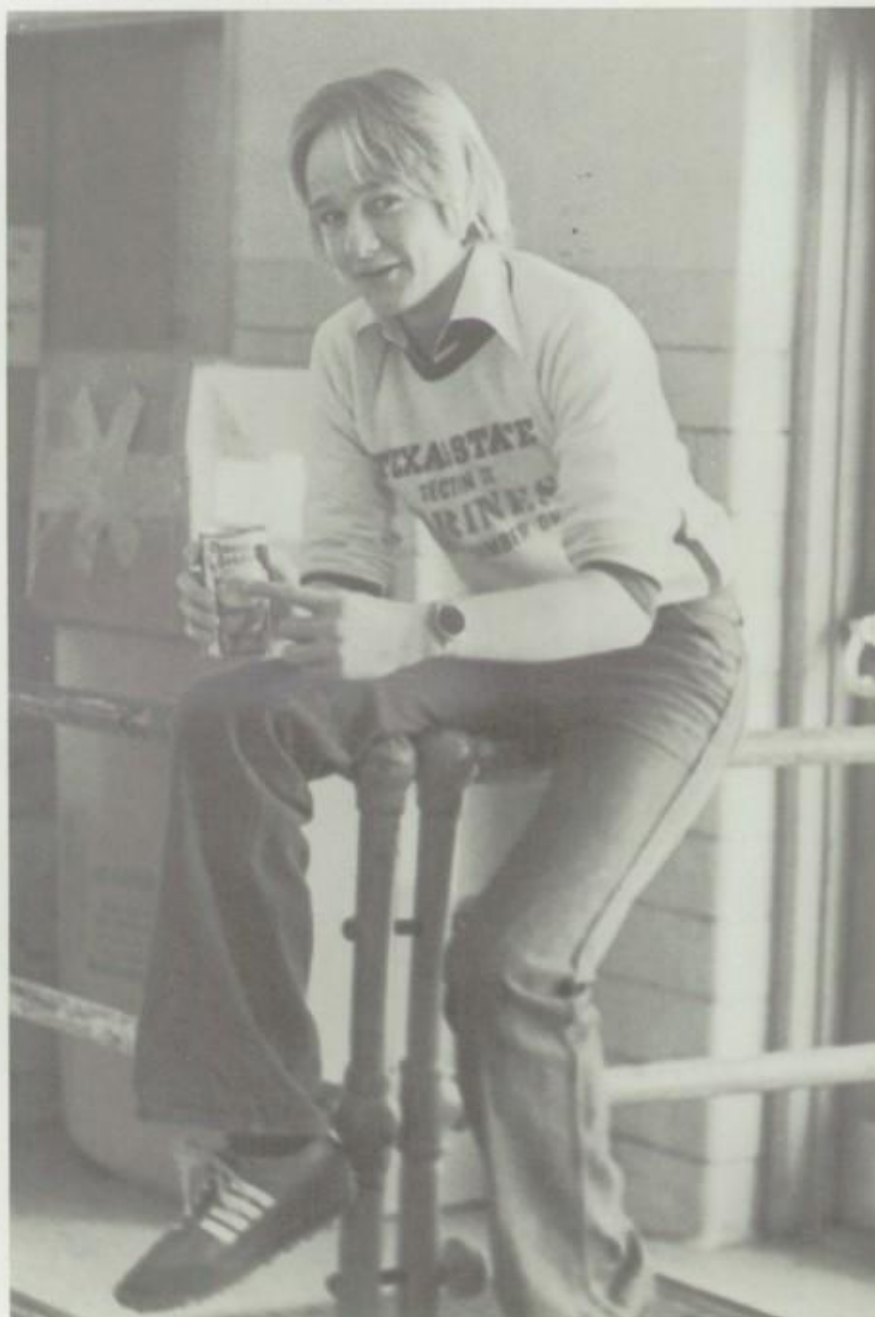

Morten, Eric, Isabel and Alvaro line up for their yearbook line-up.

Isabel takes time from class to enjoy her favorite hobby, reading.

Morten, the zaniest of the four, advertises one of the brands of drinks supplied by the new machine near the gym.

Brighten The Halls Of Somerset

Isabel and Alvaro relax a few minutes after POD, speaking to each other in Spanish.

"You sure got good head on your shoulders, Mowga," say Judy Sujansky and Lisa Rush as Eric Tensuan beckons Mark Walker to wade ashore through a school of piranha fish in the class play.

Somerset School Life Is Best Depicted

Bill Klink prepares his block print in ninth grade art class.

Class play Public Defender Veil James pleads her case to Judge Mark Walker while Bailiff Tim Everetts remains impassive.

Jackie Kephart brushes the final strokes on her painting.

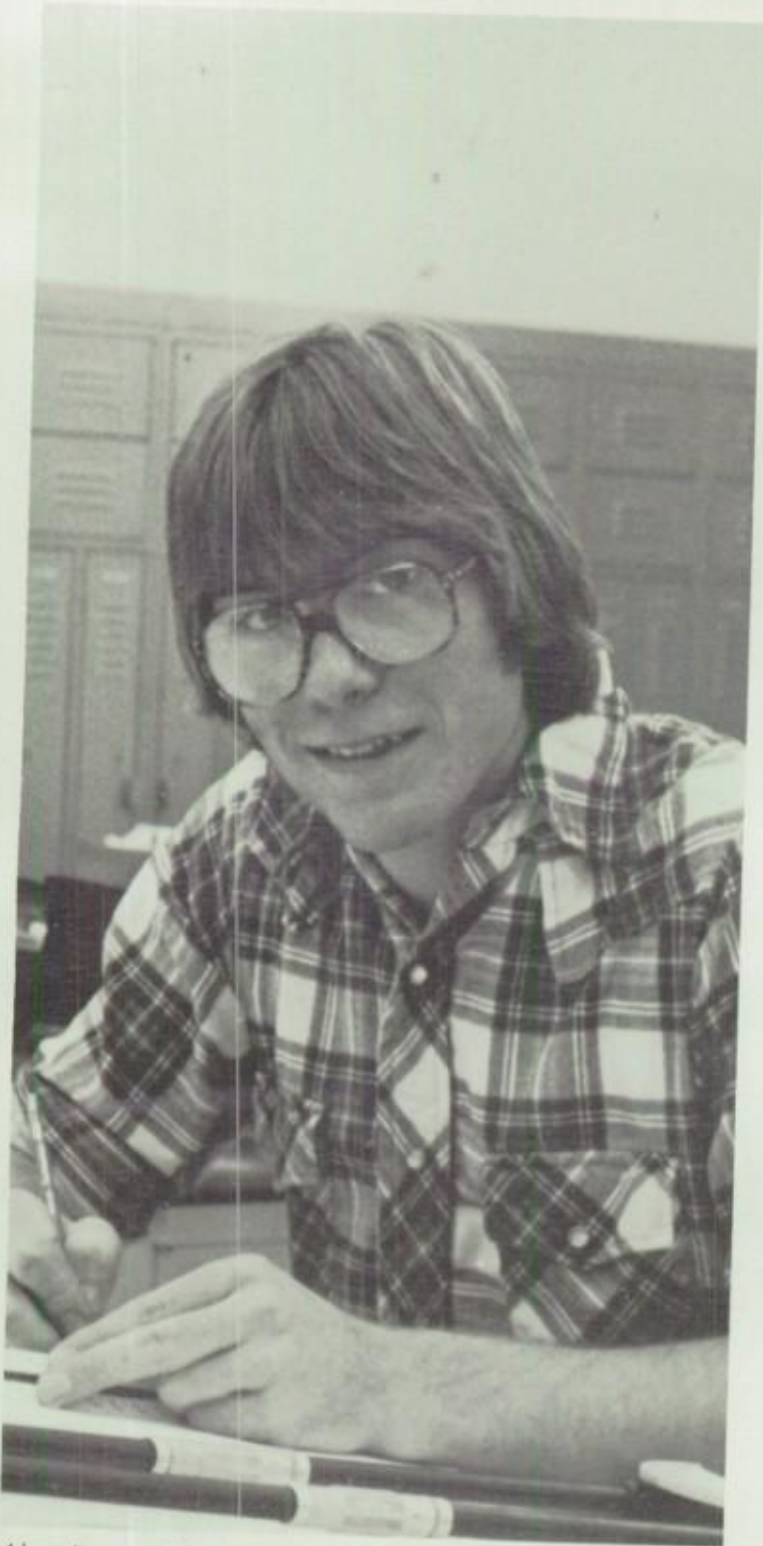

Busses awaiting school dismissal are a familiar sight at the end of each day.

Joe Heil waits at the desk for a library card.

In The Faces Of Its Students

Alan Angermeier pauses for a minute during drafting class to pose for a picture.

Jeff Spruell, Tim Svonavec and Jim Sujansky help Mr. Kuhlman rearrange office space for a new secretary.

Ann Critchfield peers over her shoulder as she hears her name mentioned.

Lisa Stahl aids in immunizing pre-schoolers at the clinic held in the junior high.

Special Thanks To

On one of his regular visits to the school, Mr. Jack Wiley, Taylor Publishing Company representative, reviews specs for the yearbook cover.

Mrs. Sally Rhodes, junior high assistant, checks the picture schedule one final time before posting it.

Those Who Made '79 Eaglet Possible

Mrs. Phyllis Cindric, Eaglet advisor, examines a contact sheet with the new magnifying lens.

Yearbook photographers Mr. Jack Gradler and Miss Helen Keegan are a valuable asset to the production of this year's Eaglet.

The Jolly Green Giant himself oversees the yearbook room, making sure that only the best ingredients go into the production of the Eaglet.

Mr. Hostetler reminds Darlette Winck that she is not permitted to sit beside Sharon Rizzo during study hall.

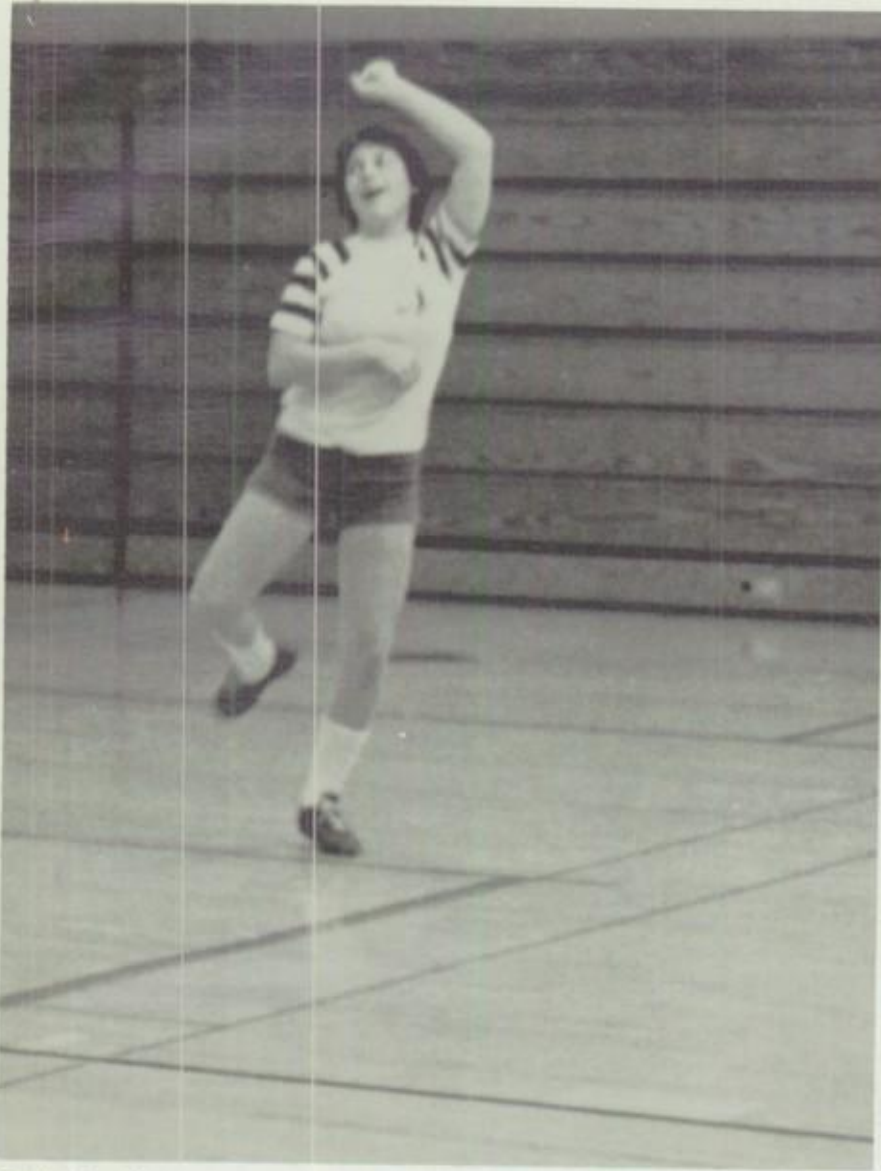

"Now let me make this perfectly clear," begins Michele Hixson to her journ class as she prepares to explain a logic problem on the board.

*We travel on, building the future with our dreams.
Together we have journeyed, forming the foundations of the life ahead.
Walking with each other,
we have lived, learned, and grown.
Looking to the past,
we reflect a kaleidoscope of memories.*

*As the road wends,
we must branch out to form our own paths.
We become individuals,
never forgetting the lessons of the past,
as they continue to shape our lives.
We reach high, strive far, work hard.
Our expectations become reality,
our ambitions, truth.*

Doug Knieriem, Jim Foust, and Tony Stanczyk browse through the magazine rack in the library before study hall.

Susie Kacsur and Mr. Christner laughingly try to defend themselves after Mrs. Miller introduces them as representatives of the notorious low homeroom 112.
